MITCHELL ASSAILANT ARSON SQUAD PROBABLY INSANE SPREADS TERROR

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
New York, April 18.—Incarceration in a mad house for the rest of his life probably will be the punishment meted out to Michael P. Mahoney, alias David Rose, the axed man who yesterday attempted to kill Mayor John Purroy Mitchell and wounded Corporation Counsel Frank L. Polk. Facts as to the attempted assassination will be laid before the grand jury on Monday by District Attorney Whitman and Mahoney's indictment will be asked on a charge of attempted murder. On such an indictment it would be possible to send the man to prison for twenty years, which would be practically a life sentence, as he is now 72 years old, but it is unlikely that he will ever be tried on this indictment.

It is the general belief of city officials and the detectives who are investigating Mahoney's past life that he is insane. They have learned that in 1912 he had a suit for $10,000 damages filed against a contractor because a brick had fallen on his head and inflicted injuries from which he had never fully recovered. In conversations with his attorney, E. A. Busch, he had frequently complained of pains in his head.

Corporation Counsel Polk is expected to recover from the injury inflicted by the one shot fired by Mahoney before he was overpowered by Police Commissioner Arthur H. Woods and chauffeur George G. Neun. Mr. Polk was resting comfortably at the New York Hospital today, though he had suffered considerable pain during the night sleeping only at intervals after the bullet had been removed from under the tongue.

Unless complications set in it is believed that Mr. Polk will be able to leave the hospital in two days. He is likely to bear a scar from the wound for the rest of his life.

Suffragettes Burn Tea Room.
By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Belfast, April 18.—Leaving behind them scathing literature denouncing Sir Edward Carson and the British government, suffragettes today invaded the Bellevue Gardens, owned by the municipality, and burned a pavilion and a tea room and wrecked botanical exhibits. The damage is estimated at $45,000.

PRESIDENT WILSON HAS SENT AN ULTIMATUM

Mexican Dictator Refuses Salute Unless a Promise Is Made it Will be Returned--President Wilson Gives Him Until Sunday Evening to Comply With Demand.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
Washington, April 8.—President Wilson has defied the United States the city of Mexico, by refusing to salute the American flag at Tampico unless an American salute is given at the same time. President Wilson has given the day to comply fully with the American government's demand. Unless the salute is fired by Huerta's men before the expiration of the time limit President Wilson will present the matter to congress for action.

The gravity of the situation was fully revealed today when President Wilson authorized the statement that Huerta is still insisting upon "doing something less than has been demanded and something less than would constitute an acknowledgment that his representatives were entirely in the wrong in the indignities they have put upon the United States."

"The president has determined that if General Huerta has not yielded by six o'clock on Sunday afternoon, he will take the matter to congress on Monday," added a memorandum issued at the White House.

This decision of the president threatens war. This action of the president in giving Huerta thirty hours in which to comply with the United States demand followed receipt of Huerta's refusal to fire the salute according to naval etiquette and precedent. The Mexican dictator reiterated his demand that the salute be fired simultaneously. This would destroy the effect of the salute and make it nothing more than a mere farce.

Huerta was accordingly informed that unless the salute is fired within thirty hours he can expect war—a war backed up by the entire strength of one of the most powerful navies in the world, 20,000 marines assisted by one hundred thousand soldiers. This force, which can be massed against Mexico within a week, is sufficient to sweep the Mexican republic from the Rio Grande to Yucatan and from the Gulf of Mexico to the Pacific ocean.

While government officials here hope that Huerta will comply with the United States demand within the time limit set by the president, there is little real expectation that he will do so.

The Mexican dictator by his latest defiance has shown plainly that he wants war and the administration is willing to gratify his desire should he continue in his refusal to salute the stars and stripes.

Officials conversant with the Mexican situation today stated that Huerta has read the handwriting on the wall and knows that his days of power are nearing an end.

MAHONEY HELD IN $25,000 BAIL

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
New York, April 18.—Michael P. Mahoney, who attempted to assassinate Mayor John Purroy Mitchell, and wounded Corporation Counsel Frank Lyon Polk, was arraigned before Magistrate Simms in the Tombs police court today upon the charge of homicide and held in $25,000 bail to await the action of the grand jury next week. Subsequently he will be examined by a commission to determine his mental state.

At his examination before Magistrate Simms the prisoner exhibited marked signs of derangement and undertook to cross examine Police Commissioner Arthur H. Woods, who was the chief witness against him.

The character of the cross examination gave plain evidence of mental aberration.

"Are you the gentleman who first jumped on me after I fired the shot at the mayor?" Mahoney asked Commissioner Woods.

"Yes," replied the commissioner. "Well, I must say you don't look like the gentleman who jumped on me," said Mahoney. "I understand that gentleman is under confinement by order of the mayor."

Magistrate Simms then asked Mahoney if he wanted counsel.

"No, I don't want any counsel," the prisoner replied. "Let the law go ahead."

After Commissioner Woods and Deputy Commissioner Rubin had been briefly examined Magistrate Simms, at the request of Assistant District Attorney DuVivier, fixed the bail at $25,000.

Mahoney laughed aloud when he heard the sum and turning to the prosecutor, said:

"Well, why don't you make it still higher? You might as well add a bit to that amount."

District Attorney Whitman said after the hearing that he has no doubt that Mahoney is insane. He added that the grand jury would probably return an indictment against the man and that he (Mr. Whitman) would immediately ask for the appointment of a lunacy commission.

It is understood that Doctors Mahon and Carlos F. MacDonald, who figured prominently in the Thaw case, will compose the commission. After an examination of Mahoney and the facts the commission is expected to report that he is insane. Then without the necessity of a trial, it is the natural procedure for the court to commit the prisoner to the state hospital for the criminal insane at Matteawan.

HUERTA MAKES A BID FOR WAR

PRESIDENT WILSON HAS SENT AN ULTIMATUM

Mexican Dictator Refuses Salute Unless a Promise Is Made it Will be Returned--President Wilson Gives Him Until Sunday Evening to Comply With Demand.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, April 8.—President Huerta has defied the United States by refusing to salute the American flag at Tampico unless an American salute is given at the same time. President Wilson has given the Mexican dictator until six p. m. Sunday to comply fully with the American government's demand. Unless the salute is fired by Huerta's men before the expiration of the time limit President Wilson will present the matter to congress for action.

The gravity of the situation was fully revealed today when President Wilson authorized the statement that Huerta is still insisting upon "doing something less than has been demanded and something less than would constitute an acknowledgment that his representatives were entirely in the wrong in the indignities they have put upon the United States."

"The president has determined that if General Huerta has not yielded by six o'clock on Sunday afternoon, he will take the matter to congress on Monday," added a memorandum issued at the White House.

This decision of the president threatens war. This action of the president in giving Huerta thirty hours in which to comply with the United States demand followed receipt of Huerta's refusal to fire the salute according to naval etiquette and precedent. The Mexican dictator reiterated his demand that the salute be fired simultaneously. This the American government holds would destroy the effect of the salute and make it nothing more than a mere farce.

Huerta was accordingly informed that unless the salute is fired within thirty hours he can expect war—a war backed up by the entire strength of one of the most powerful navies in the world, 20,000 marines assisted by one hundred thousand soldiers. This force, which can be massed against Mexico within a week, is sufficient to sweep the Mexican republic from the Rio Grande to Yucatan and from the Gulf of Mexico to the Pacific ocean.

While government officials here hope that Huerta will comply with the United States demand within the time limit set by the president, there is little real expectation that he will do so.

The Mexican dictator by his latest defiance has shown plainly that he wants war and the administration is willing to gratify his desire should he continue in his refusal to salute the stars and stripes.

Officials conversant with the Mexican situation today stated that Huerta has read the handwriting on the wall and knows that his days of power are nearing an end.

Rather than risk facing the firing squad of the Constitutionalists which would surely be his fate if the rebels capture Mexico City, the dictator prefers to defy the United States in the expectation that when defeated he will be allowed to go into exile in some foreign country. Furthermore, it was pointed out, war with the United States will consolidate all the warring factions in Mexico against this nation.

There is little doubt in the minds of government officials here that war with Mexico would be short lived. Plans have already been completed to bombard Vera Cruz, Tampico and Mazatlan and to land troops at Vera Cruz to begin the campaign toward the city of Mexico.

At the same time a tremendous force of regular soldiers will be hurled across the border and will start southward by way of Chihuahua, Torreon and Monterey, toward the Mexican capital following the same path made famous by General Zachary Taylor in 1848.

MAHONEY HELD IN $25,000 BAIL

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, April 18.—Michael P. Mahoney, who attempted to assassinate Mayor John Purroy Mitchell, and wounded Corporation Counsel Frank Lyon Polk, was arraigned before Magistrate Simms in the Tombs police court today upon the charge of homicide and held in $25,000 bail to await the action of the grand jury next week. Subsequently he will be examined by a commission to determine his mental state.

At his examination before Magistrate Simms the prisoner exhibited marked signs of derangement and undertook to cross examine Commissioner Arthur H. Woods, who was the chief witness against him.

The character of the cross examination gave plain evidence of mental aberration. "Are you the gentleman who first jumped on me after I fired the shot at the mayor?" Mahoney asked Commissioner Woods.

"Yes," replied the commissioner. "Well, I must say you don't look like the gentleman who jumped on me," said Mahoney. "I understand that gentleman is under confinement by order of the mayor."

Magistrate Simms then asked Mahoney if he wanted counsel.

"No, I don't want any counsel," the prisoner replied. "Let the law go ahead."

After Commissioner Woods and Deputy Commissioner Rubin had been briefly examined Magistrate Simms, at the request of Assistant District Attorney DuVivier, fixed the bail at $25,000.

Mahoney laughed aloud when he heard the sum and turning to the prosecutor said:

"Well, why don't you make it still higher? You might as well add a bit to that amount."

District Attorney Whitman said after the hearing that he has no doubt that Mahoney is insane. He added that the grand jury would probably return an indictment against the man and that he (Mr. Whitman) would immediately ask for the appointment of a lunacy commission.

It is understood that Doctors Mahon and Carlos F. MacDonald, who figured prominently in the Thaw case, will compose the commission.

After an examination of Mahoney and the facts the commission is expected to report that he is insane. Then without the necessity of a trial, it is the natural procedure for the court to commit the prisoner to the state hospital for the criminal insane at Matteawan.

When Mahoney left his cell at police headquarters to be taken before Magistrate Simms he complained that he was cold. He said that the detectives had allowed him to sleep only from 4 to 8 o'clock.

"Are you hungry?" Asked Henry Borden, the doorkeeper.

"Yes, I would like to have something hot to drink," said Mahoney. Borden secured some rolls and coffee and the old man attacked the food eagerly. When he had finished eating he said:

"You are the first man who has shown me any sympathy since I was arrested."

He was taken to the drill room at police headquarters on the way to court and lined up with other offenders before the detectives.

Mahoney was not questioned then following instructions from Deputy Police Commissioner Rubin to let him rest.

After the line up Mahoney was bundled into a patrol wagon and taken to the Tombs court, which was crowded when the shabby prisoner was brought in. There were several assistant prosecutors to help Du Vivier and many attorneys also gathered to hear the examination.

ADMIRAL BADGER AFTER RECEIVING FINAL ORDERS AND OFFICER WHO DELIVERED THEM.

Admiral Fish brought the final orders from Washington to Admiral Badger. "Admiral Fish was the last man to leave the ship before the sailing order was given."

MITCHELL ASSAILANT ARSON SQUAD PROBABLY INSANE SPREADS TERROR

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, April 18.—Incarceration in a mad house for the rest of his life probably will be the punishment meted out to Michael P. Mahoney, alias David Rose, the aged man who yesterday attempted to kill Mayor John Purroy Mitchell and wounded Corporation Counsel Frank L. Polk. Facts as to the attempted assassination will be laid before the grand jury on Monday by District Attorney Whitman and Mahoney's indictment will be asked on a charge of attempted murder. On such an indictment it would be possible to send the man to prison for twenty years, which would be practically a life sentence, as he is now 72 years old, but it is unlikely that he will ever be tried on this indictment.

It is the general belief of city officials and the detectives who are investigating Mahoney's past life that he is insane. They have learned that in 1912 he had a suit for $10,000 damages filed against a contractor because a brick had fallen on his head and inflicted injuries from which he had never fully recovered. In conversations with his attorney, E. A. Bush, he had frequently complained of pains in his head.

Corporation Counsel Polk is expected to recover from the injury inflicted by the shot fired by Mahoney before he was overpowered by Police Commissioner Arthur H. Woods and Chauffeur George G. Neun. Mr. Polk was resting comfortably at the New York Hospital today, though he had suffered considerable pain during the night sleeping only at intervals after the bullet had been removed from under the tongue.

Unless complications set in it is believed that Mr. Polk will be able to leave the hospital in two days. He is likely to bear a scar from the wound for the rest of his life.

Ellenville Woman in Bankruptcy.

Sarah Fish, hotel keeper at Ellenville, has filed a petition in bankruptcy. The liabilities are $9,107 and no available assets. Among the creditors are the State Bank, $1,500, secured by diamond rings and brooches; Munch Brewing Company, $2,500, secured by chattel mortgage and Weiz and Zerwick, Brooklyn, $800, secured.

Suffragettes Burn Tea Room.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Belfast, April 18.—Leaving behind them scathing literature denouncing Sir Edward Carson and the British government, suffragettes today invaded the Bellevue Gardens, owned by the municipality, and burned a pavilion and a tea room and wrecked botanical exhibits. The damage is estimated at $45,000.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

London, April 8.—A reign of terror exists today throughout the British Isles as a result of the activity of the suffragette incendiaries. The fears of property owners were heightened today by the information that Scotland Yard has discovered a plot among the leaders of the militant suffragettes to carry on the most extensive arson campaign that has been attempted since women inflicted violence into their campaign for votes.

Insurance rates are being increased and many large property owners are employing special guards to watch their buildings.

A striking feature of the situation is that no one knows where the torch will be applied next. The leaders have divided the arson squad into detachments, one of which has been sent into Scotland and another into Ireland.

The police are mystified as to the source of the finances which the militants have to carry on such a campaign.

During the past 24 hours suffragettes have done more than $250,000 damage.

COUNTY FARM AGENT.

Mr. Hook Will Visit Around and Get Acquainted.

The executive committee of the Ulster County Farm Bureau met with County Agent Wallace H. Hook at the court house on Friday afternoon and talked over plans for carrying on the work of the bureau in the county. It was decided that Saturdays be set aside for regular office days and that Mr. Hook could be seen at the office on that day from 9 to 12 o'clock in the morning and from 1 to 4 o'clock in the afternoon by any one wishing to see him and discuss agricultural problems. At the present time, through the courtesy of Herbert Carl, Mr. Hook has a temporary office in the Herbert Carl Dry Goods Company's store on North Front street over the millinery department. After alterations have been made to the Romeyn property on John street which the county recently purchased Mr. Hook will have an office in the building. Monday evening Mr. Hook will visit the Milton Grange and meet the members, and on Monday evening, April 27, he will visit the Clinchdale Grange. The following Tuesday he will attend the meeting of Marborough Grange. The executive committee were of the opinion that in this way he would become acquainted quicker with the farming interests of the county.

High Falls.

High Falls, April 13.—There is a closing out sale at the store of S. R. Keator. A large amount of goods has been sold during the last few weeks. People are taking advantage of the reduced prices.

Miss Cynthia Van Wagenen was in town on Monday.

There was a euchre and dance at William Quick's hotel on Wednesday evening. There were quite a few present.

The police, who were stationed in this village, have been transferred to Shokan. They left here on Wednesday.

Miss Katherine Krom returned to her school on Monday.

Mrs. Oscar Church, who has been visiting her sister, Mrs. Bain, of Greenwich, Conn., returned home last week.

There is to be a basketball game and dance at the B. W. S. Hall on Saturday evening. It is the last game of the season and it is hoped there will be a large number present. Music will be furnished by Mottmann's orchestra.

Mrs. George Switzer, who has been away visiting, returned home this week.

Mrs. Simon Yeaple, who is now at

Dr. Johnston's sanitarium, is slowly improving.

There was a play given in the Reformed Church on Tuesday evening, entitled "Just for Fun." There were six characters in the play and all took their parts well. There were quite a few present, a number coming down from Stone Ridge. After the play refreshments were served, consisting of ice cream and cake. About $35 were taken in. The proceeds were for the benefit of the church.

The envelopes to match the initial writing tablets which are for sale at the post office will be in the last of the week. Don't forget to stop in and purchase some.

A young lady friend is spending some time as the guest of Miss Helen Terwilliger.

Missionary meeting was held at the home of Mrs. J. N. Barnhart on Thursday afternoon. It was hoped there would be as many present as possible as it was the annual meeting, but the storm prevented a large attendance.

Miss Gladys Bray of Hudson Heights, N. J., who has been spending some time at the home of her aunt, Mrs. Millard Roosa, returned to her home this week.

Claude Yeaple has been doing some painting for Mr. Pratt. He is also to paint the office building which was purchased by DeWitt Steen.

Dr. Johnston's sanitarium, is slowly improving.

There was a play given in the Reformed Church on Tuesday evening, entitled "Just for Fun." There were six characters in the play and all took their parts well. There were quite a few present, a number coming down from Stone Ridge. After the play refreshments were served, consisting of ice cream and cake. About $35 were taken in. The proceeds were for the benefit of the church.

The envelopes to match the initial writing tablets which are for sale at the post office will be in the last of the week. Don't forget to stop in and purchase some.

A young lady friend is spending some time as the guest of Miss Helen Terwilliger.

Missionary meeting was held at the home of Mrs. J. N. Barnhart on Thursday afternoon. It was hoped there would be as many present as possible as it was the annual meeting, but the storm prevented a large attendance.

Miss Gladys Bray of Hudson Heights, N. J., who has been spending some time at the home of her aunt, Mrs. Millard Rouse, returned to her home this week.

Claude Yeaple has been doing some painting for Mr. Pratt. He is also to paint the office building which was purchased by DeWitt Steen.

Mrs. Geary has moved into the house owned by Jacob Snyder and recently vacated by Bertron Williams.

The La Polts have moved into the house owned by the Electric Light Company.

Will Sutton and family have moved into the house where the Bailey family formerly lived.

John Krom and family are now occupying the house recently bought by them. It seems good to see it open once more. They are to open a restaurant.

They are also to have an ice cream parlor and the son is to have charge of an automobile shop.

Miss Nettie Dym returned to her school in New York on Sunday.

Miss Rose Flanagan returned to school in Atlantic City on Monday.

Tracy Sherman has had his automobile repaired and it is now ready for service.

The past week has been very pleasant. Many of the people in this village have started their spring house cleaning.

James Kelley has sold his property to a party of Hebrews for about $1,500.

Mrs. Ralph Savage is to spend some time at Maybrook, where her husband is employed.

Although it is April snow flakes have been falling. The last storm was very cold for this time of the year. April, like the former months this year, has been colder than the average.

Mr. Markey was the guest of Miss Rose Flanagan the past Sunday.

There was a mistake made in the statement concerning school. There was school here this week.

The Scrap Book

Not So Slow After All.
At one time a German university developed the mania for conferring honorary degrees, and a Scottish doctor named MacTavish, who had obtained his degree by diligent labor, became disgusted. He sent a polite letter to the faculty, asking them to bestow a degree upon his servant. The doctor was a great man, and the jocose nature of the request was not suspected, so the parchment was accordingly sent him.

After acknowledging its receipt, the physician added that, since they were so kind as to give his servant a degree, it would add to his obligation if they would confer one upon his favorite horse. But the faculty, the joke once fairly started, rose to the occasion.

"We are obliged," they wrote, "respectfully to decline granting so distinguished a favor. We have searched the college records for a precedent, but the only one to be found lies in the fact that some years ago a degree was conferred upon an ass named MacTavish."—Lippincott's.

Service.
The sweetest lives are those to duty wed.
Whose deeds, both great and small,
Are close knit strands of an unbroken thread.
Where love ennobles all.
The world may sound no trumpet, ring no bells;
The book of life the shining record tells.
Thy love shall chant its own beatitudes.
After its own life working. A child's kiss
Set on thy singing lips shall make thee glad.
A sick man helped by thee shall make thee strong;
Thou shalt be served thyself by every sense
Of service which thou renderest.
—Elizabeth Barrett Browning.

Got Real Nervy.
Before the passage of the present strict banking laws in one of our newer states starting a bank was a comparatively simple proposition. The surprisingly small amount of capital needed is well illustrated by the story of a prosperous country town banker told on himself when asked how he happened to enter the banking business:

"Well," he said, "I didn't have much else to do, so I rented an empty store building and painted 'bank' on the window. The first day I was open for business a man came in and deposited $100 with me, the second day another man dropped in and deposited $250, and so, by George, along about the third day I got confidence enough in the bank to put in $100 myself."—Everybody's.

Between Two Baths.
A Missouri official returned in very moderate circumstances to his home town after a long career in office. His fellow townsmen thought to buy a house and present it to him.
The Missouri statesman was noted for his ability to keep on the fence. He never took a positive stand on anything, but leaned one way and then another and compromised by remaining on the tight wire.

The committee went to look at a house. It was a good house, with plenty of rooms and two bathrooms. All were pleased except one man, who said nothing.
"How about it, Bill?" the other committee men asked. "Do you think this house is all right?"

"Nope," replied Bill. "It's insanitary."
"Insanitary? Why, man, you're crazy! It has good plumbing and two bathrooms."
"That's just it," said Bill. "Them two bathrooms is what I don't like. He'd never get to take a bath with two bathrooms in the house, because he couldn't decide to use one without being afraid he'd hurt the feelings of the other."—Saturday Evening Post.

His Glaring Escape.
In some private theatricals in a New York mansion recently a fugitive from justice was supposed to escape from his pursuers by concealing himself under a table. The table was small, and the terrified fugitive was somewhat lengthy.

The commander of the pursuing party rushed on the stage and fell over the legs of the man he was searching for. Picking himself up and ludicrously rubbing his shins, he convulsed the audience by exclaiming in true dramatic style:
"Ha, ha! The dastardly villain has eluded us again!"

Making the Dumb Speak.
A man had lost all power of speech for over a year, writes Sydney Holland in the London Express. His wife brought him to the London hospital to see one of our physicians, who quickly realized that there was nothing whatever the matter with him and that he was merely suffering from the reverse of faith healing—that is, "imaginary disease suffering."

In the patient's hearing he told a student to fetch the largest forceps he could find and added, "It may hurt him, but I can remove the growth."

"Now, shout out if I hurt you," said the physician as he plunged the forceps down the man's throat. "Heavens!" the patient shouted. "That's right," the physician said. "I have got it away."

The man went away not only speaking, but swearing, and it is said, but I will not vouch for the rest of the story, that his wife came back a week later and begged us to do something to the man, who talked so incessantly to make up for lost time that they were all driven wild.

HE NEVER SWORE.
Yet a Court Record Quoted Him as Using Strong Language.
One day during a term of court at Macon, Mo., some years ago, Judge Shelton, who was running through a stenographic record of a trial, detected

Style, Fit, Quality, Price

What's the determining factor in your Clothes buying?

Style is important, it is or should be a true reflection of your character.

Fit is vital, if perfect it insures a proper personal appearance.

Quality should be considered from but one level—100 per cent if it's less Style and Fit will avail nothing.

Price rests largely with the size of your income yet no one in justice to their best interests should pay too much for their clothes.

In our estimation Kuppenheimer Clothes are supreme in Style and Fit. Their quality throughout is uniformly superior and under our better clothes selling methods you are assured of greater value in these clothes at any of our prices than it is possible for you to secure elsewhere

$18, $20, $22.50, $25, $27.50, $30

Not more than you should pay but as little as such good clothes can be sold for.

been gone for a considerable time the clerk went up to see if he had called the rooms designated.

"Well," sighed the new porter, whom he found on the third floor, "I'm doing pretty well. I've got seventeen of 'em up, but I haven't started on the other four yet."—National Food Magazine.

Two Deductive Reasoners.
A gentleman was taking a horseback trip over the mountain one day when he became very thirsty. He stopped at the nearest cabin and asked for a drink.

An old colored woman handed him a round dipper full of sparkling water from the spring. The gentleman turned the dipper around gingerly and drank from the wrong side. Old Aunt Milly beamed on him.
"Boss," she said, "you is de fust person Ah evah see drink from de same side of de dipper Ah drinks from!"—New York Post.

Enough Said.
In Theodore Roosevelt's autobiography is this story:
Mr. Roosevelt wished to appoint an ex-rough rider marshal of a Rocky mountain state, but first questioned him as to his past.

"Now, Ben," asked Roosevelt, "how did you lose that half of your ear?"
To which, looking rather shy, Ben responded:
"Well, colonel, it was bit off."
"How did it happen?"
"Well, you see, I was sent to arrest a gentleman, and him and me mixed it up, and he bit off my ear."
"What did you do to the gentleman, Ben?"
And Ben, looking more coy than ever, responded: "Well, colonel, we broke about even."

"Knocked Into a Cocked Hat."
The meaning of this expression is not generally known. "Cocked hat" was a variety of the game of tenpins, in which only three pins were used, set up at the angles of a triangle. When in bowling at tenpins all were knocked down except the three at the corners the set was said to be "knocked into a cocked hat," whence the popular expression for depriving anything of its main body, character or purpose.—London Express.

Rubber Erasers.
India rubber was used for the first time as an eraser in 1770, when a very small piece was sold for 3 marks. It was, however, many years later before it was put into general use. Prior to this the crumb of bread was used for erasing purposes.—London Mail.

A Cynical View.
"Married life is somewhat like a pack of cards," says a lady novelist. "Hearts figure but little any more, but if the husband has diamonds enough clubs become popular, and sooner or later a spade is his last trump."—Glasgow Herald.

Can We Pull Anything?
Sir Oliver Lodge, the eminent English scientist, said in a lecture once that there is no such thing as pulling. To speak of a horse pulling a cart, he said, is incorrect. The horse did not pull the cart. It pushed against its collar and thereby produced motion in the cart. Similarly the oarsman pushed the water, and the man drawing a handcart had to clasp the handle, and the driving force was caused by the part which clasped the handle and was therefore behind it. Even if the cart was fastened to the man's coat tail he did not pull it. He pushed against his clothes.

Not For Her.
"What did you say to him, dad?"
"I asked him if he could support you in the style to which you had been accustomed."
"And he?"
"He said he could."
"If he tries it I'll divorce him."—Houston Post.

Paid In His Own Coin.
"John, did you read about this Denver millionaire giving his wife a diamond tiara?"
"No."
"It's in all the papers. Why don't you keep posted on current events?"—Pittsburgh Post.

Hard Work.
"It is a good rule to endeavor hour by hour and week after week to learn to work hard. It is not well to take four minutes to do what we can accomplish in three."—Charles W. Elliot.

Good Idea.
When they have their pictures taken people try to look pleasant. Why not wear that look all the time? It will shorten no man's life!—Knoxville Tribune.

Temper, not trouble, makes the misery of most men's and women's lives.

Not So Slow After All.
At one time a German university developed the mania for conferring honorary degrees, and a Scottish doctor named MacTavish, who had obtained his degree by diligent labor, became disgusted. He sent a polite letter to the faculty, asking them to bestow a degree upon his servant. The doctor was a great man, and the jocose nature of the request was not suspected, so the parchment was accordingly sent him.

After acknowledging its receipt, the physician added that, since they were so kind as to give his servant a degree, it would add to his obligation if they would confer one upon his favorite horse. But the faculty, the joke once fairly started, rose to the occasion.

"We are obliged," they wrote, "respectfully to decline granting so distinguished a favor. We have searched the college records for a precedent, but the only one to be found lies in the fact that some years ago a degree was conferred upon an ass named MacTavish."—Lippincott's.

Service.
The sweetest lives are those to duty wed. Whose deeds, both great and small, Are close knit strands of an unbroken thread.

Where love ennobles all, The world may sound no trumpet, ring no bells; The look of life the shining record tells. Thy love shall chant its own beatitudes, After its own life working. A child's kiss Set on thy singing lips shall make thee glad;

A sick man helped by thee shall make thee strong; Thou shalt be served thyself by every sense Of service which thou renderest. —Elizabeth Barrett Browning.

Got Real Nerve.
Before the passage of the present strict banking laws in one of our newer states starting a bank was a comparatively simple proposition. The surprisingly small amount of capital needed is well illustrated by the story of a prosperous country town banker told on himself when asked how he happened to enter the banking business:

"Well," he said, "I didn't have much else to do, so I rented an empty store building and painted 'bank' on the window. The first day I was open for business a man came in and deposited $100 with me, the second day another man dropped in and deposited $250, and so, by George, along about the third day I got confidence enough in the bank to put in $100 myself!—Everybody's.

Between Two Baths.
A Missouri official returned in very moderate circumstances to his home town after a long career in office. His fellow townsmen thought to buy a house and present it to him.

The Missouri statesman was noted for his ability to keep on the fence. He never took a positive stand on anything, but leaned one way and then another and compromised by remaining on the tight wire.

The committee went to look at a house. It was a good house, with plenty of rooms and two bathrooms. All were pleased except one man, who said nothing.

"How about it, Bill?" the other committee men asked. "Do you think this house is all right?"

"Nope," replied Bill. "It's insanitary."

"Insanitary? Why, man, you're crazy! It has good plumbing and two bathrooms."

"That's just it," said Bill. "Them two bathrooms is what I don't like. He'd never get to take a bath with two bathrooms in the house, because he couldn't decide to use one without being afraid he'd hurt the feelin's of the other."—Saturday Evening Post.

His Glaring Escape.
In some private theatricals in a New York mansion recently a fugitive from justice was supposed to escape from his pursuers by concealing himself under a table. The table was small, and the terrified fugitive was somewhat lengthy.

The commander of the pursuing party rushed on the stage and fell over the legs of the man he was searching for. Picking himself up and ludicrously rubbing his shins, he convulsed the audience by exclaiming in true dramatic style:

"Ha, ha! The dastardly villain has eluded us again!"

Making the Dumb Speak.
A man had lost all power of speech for over a year, writes Sydney Holland in the London Express. His wife brought him to the London hospital to see one of our physicians, who quickly realized that there was nothing whatever the matter with him and that he was merely suffering from the reverse of faith healing—that is, "imaginary disease suffering."

In the patient's hearing he told a student to fetch the largest forceps he could find and added, "It may hurt him, but I can remove the growth." "Now, shout out if I hurt you," said the physician as he plunged the forceps down the man's throat. "Heavens!" the patient shouted. "That's right," the physician said. "I have got it away."

The man went away not only speaking, but swearing, and it is said, but I will not vouch for the rest of the story, that his wife came back a week later and begged us to do something to the man, who talked so incessantly to make up for lost time that they were all driven wild.

Style, Fit, Quality, Price

What's the determining factor in your Clothes buying?

Style is important, it is or should be a true reflection of your character.

Fit is vital, if perfect it insures a proper personal appearance.

Quality should be considered from but one level—100 per cent if it's less Style and Fit will avail nothing.

Price rests largely with the size of your income yet no one in justice to their best interests should pay too much for their clothes.

In our estimation Kuppenheimer Clothes are supreme in Style and Fit. Their quality throughout is uniformly superior and under our better clothes selling methods you are assured of greater value in these clothes at any of our prices than it is possible for you to secure elsewhere

$18, $20, $22.50, $25, $27.50, $30

Not more than you should pay but as little as such good clothes can be sold for.

Two Deductive Reasoners.
A gentleman was taking a horseback trip over the mountain one day when he became very thirsty. He stopped at the nearest cabin and asked for a drink.

An old colored woman handed him a round dipper full of sparkling water from the spring. The gentleman turned the dipper around gingerly and drank from the wrong side. Old Aunt Milly beamed on him.

In Theodore Roosevelt's autobiography is this story:

Mr. Roosevelt wished to appoint an ex-rough rider marshal of a Rocky mountain state, but first questioned him as to his past.

"Now, Ben," asked Roosevelt, "how did you lose that half of your ear?"

"To which, looking rather shy, Ben responded:

"Well, colonel, it was bit off."

"How did it happen?"

"Well, you see, I was sent to arrest a gentleman, and him and me mixed it up, and he bit off my ear."

"What did you do to the gentleman, Ben?"

And Ben, looking more coy than ever, responded: "Well, colonel, we broke about even."

"Knocked Into a Cocked Hat."

The meaning of this expression is not generally known. "Cocked hat" was a variety of the game of tenpins, in which only three pins were used, set up at the angles of a triangle. When in bowling at tenpins all were knocked down except the three at the corners the set was said to be "knocked into a cocked hat," whence the popular expression for depriving anything of its main body, character or purpose.—London Express.

HOW TO GET A NEW CHARTER.

Some of the difficulties in the way of getting a new and scientifically constructed charter for the City of Kingston have been removed by Governor Glynn's action in signing the Murtough-Sullivan optional city charter bill. Under this act seven different forms of charters are offered for second and third class cities to choose from, if they desire to do so. They comprise all the different devices for municipal government which have received favor throughout the country, and are alike only in the particular that they provide for as near an approximation to home rule and the short ballot as is possible.

Two of these optional forms are variations of the commission form of government. Another provides for a hired "City Manager," such as Olean is about to have. Another provides for a mayor and council of three or five members elected at large. Another is like it except that it makes a council of nine. Still another provides that the councilmen shall be elected from the wards. The last allows third class cities to adopt the uniform second class city charter with the salaries at a lower figure. Under all these plans the terms of mayors and councilmen are for four years. We cannot devote more space to a synopsis of the act, inasmuch as it will be printed in full in The Freeman before it goes into effect on July 15.

This is the way in which the people of Kingston can secure advantage from the law. Thirty days after it takes effect a petition signed by ten per cent of the voters of the city may be presented to the common council, asking that one of these seven plans be submitted to popular vote. The election must be held on or at a special election later on. Only one can be voted on at a time. If it is adopted it cannot be repealed until four years have elapsed. It adopted this fall, the new charter would not take effect until January 1, 1916, so that it would in no way interfere with our existing city administration.

It seems to us that under these circumstances we should be able to secure a charter which would be a great improvement on the existing one. It would be the work of experts—not of politicians. It is necessary only for somebody to start the ball rolling.

The text of the treaty between the United States and Colombia, which was reported to contain an apology for the "taking" of Panama has leaked out. The word "apologize" is not used, but it is stated that the United States "expresses sincere regret for anything that may have interrupted or altered the relations of cordial friendship existing long between the two nations." This is practically the same as saying that the United States regrets what Roosevelt did as President and afterwards boasted of. So far as we recall, the acts of a former President have never yet been repudiated, and it will be exciting to see how the Senate handles this novel proposition. Let us hope that the Colonel will be back in time to take a hand in the debate over the question whether he is a thief and pirate.

The Republican County Committee of New York has gone on record almost unanimously in opposition to the holding of an informal state convention or conference this year. State Chairman William Barnes and District Attorney Whitman are also opposed to the idea. Job Hedges is for it. There is a wide divergence of opinion among the party leaders of the state on this subject. The Democratic party leaders are also divided and are understood to be waiting to see what the Republicans do, with a view to following their example. Believers in the utility of party conventions, which the Glynn law abolished, believe that if the law is permitted to work without interference its results will so disgust the people that its repeal will speedily be accomplished. They also believe that unless extra-legal conventions are held, the ticket named at the primaries will be ill-balanced and unsatisfactory in many ways. This makes the choice hard from the politician's standpoint, but it seems to most disinterested citizens that it is more important to put a good ticket in the field than

It is to put Governor Glynn in a hole. It is not advisable to sacrifice the public interest in order to show that your opponent has made a fool of himself. The average voter can grasp a fact without having it kicked into him.

HIS SERMON.

(By Our Woman Editor.)
"One person I have to make good: myself. But my duty to my neighbor is much more nearly expressed by saying that I have to make him happy—if I may."—From the Christmas sermon (Robert Louis Stevenson).

Isn't that delightfully practical? It begins, we remember, with the statement that some folk in the world have the notion that their mission is to work upon the bad in their neighbors—and by "neighbors," more often than not, they mean the nearest in their own homes—and make it flower into the good. But Stevenson gently reminds them that they have troubles of their own, so far as badness goes, without attempting to make over their neighbors.

It is only Stevenson's pretty way of telling us all to play and to work in our "own back yards," those yards where character weaknesses grow and where bad habits thrive if let alone to shoot up as they may. And, reading between the lines, we know that he means to warn us against self-satisfaction—self-righteousness perhaps is better. Because it is so easy to turn a brief little, kind little look upon ourselves and be right well pleased with the look, skipping the very things that most offend our neighbors. Then to glance again and again at the folk we meet in our most intimate travels and to be shocked at their awful shortcomings that we conceive it almost a duty to help them "be good."

But—"One person I have to make good: myself."

As to the rest, the happiness part, one really believes that if we "went about that labor of love half so earnestly as Stevenson did, the personal goodness might safely be trusted to look after itself. Because when we thoughtfully try to figure out the far reaches of that one great effort to make others happy, it seems as if everything beautiful and good and unselfish must come sweeping along in its trail.

Succeeding in that, we just couldn't help being good.

But Stevenson, when he says that his supreme duty to his neighbor is to make him happy does well to add—"If I may." Because that is much easier said than done. It means, among a few sacrifices else, willing blindness to some things not liked so very well; and everybody knows that that kind of blindness is pretty hard to acquire. But not nearly so difficult if, all the while, we keep peering away out there in the tangled wilderness of our back yards. For there is so much planting and pruning and weeding and tending to be done right there that we find little enough time to worry about others.

And besides, the more we work up on ourselves the more tolerant we grow of our neighbors, because—"A fellow feeling makes one wondrous kind," you know.

And isn't it strange that the best-intentioned effort in the world to make other folk good is almost certain to end in failure, except as effort is made through the quiet way of example? There's resentment, there's retaliation, there's everything but reform. Among friends—but they cease to be friends; and among folk in the home—they just count it "nagging." And when that begins, happiness takes speedy wings.

So, when we feel an impulse stirring within us to try to make anyone good,—particularly anyone for whom we care very much—let us try desperately hard to remember that one little word, "myself," and then bear in mind the rest: "I have to make him happy."

And the chances are that as the other grows happy he will be quite "good" enough to respond to our own modest measure.

Some thoughts sent adrift by the very best minds we read and forget all too soon, but this is one we can afford to tuck away very safely and within easy reach all the time, because if we can succeed in the duty, the pleasure, whatever you will, of making the folk nearest us happy—we, well, we shall be sure of one royal little crown, if no more.

And for that reason it might well become almost a prayer—

"One person I have to make good: myself. But my duty to my neighbor is much more nearly expressed by saying that I have to make him happy—if I may."

FRANCES SHAFFER.

Four Tramps Driven Out.

Frank Ross, Joseph Barbara, Frank Romano and Peter Panzarella, four Italian tramps, were arrested Friday night in the south yard of the West Shore railroad by Policemen Fout. The men had alighted from a freight train and started a fire along the tracks to cook their evening meal. When arraigned this morning before Recorder Grogan they were discharged after being warned to get out of town.

DOLLAR A DAY SALE
NEXT WEDNESDAY

Worcester inaugurated its first "Dollar Day" on Saturday, March 28, and despite the most unfavorable weather conditions it was an unqualified success. This method of attracting trade was new to Worcester merchants but its success in other cities, particularly in the west, convinced the Mercantile Bureau that it could be operated with similar success here in Worcester. Consequently the matter was brought up at a meeting of the Mercantile Committee, unanimously endorsed and through the initiative of this bureau all Worcester merchants were interested in the project.

The manner in which the merchants co-operated in this first general movement since the establishment of the bureau, on January 1, was a source of gratification to every member of the Mercantile Committee. They ran special advertisements in the newspapers, featuring a wide variety of articles which would be on sale for one dollar on March 28 only.

The way in which the people responded to their efforts repaid every merchant who offered these special inducements. Though it rained continually throughout the day, the stores were thronged with people buying here and there, as they saw some unusual attractive bargain which could be theirs for a dollar bill. The suburban patronage was exceedingly large, considering the weather, the street railway officials reporting considerably heavier traffic for a stormy Saturday.

The success of "Dollar Day" has made the affair an annual event, with this distinct advantage hoped for in another year—fair weather. Kingston is to have its "Dollar Day" on Wednesday, April 22, when Kingston merchants will do all that was done in Worcester and then some, in the way of offering bargains.

Vesper at First Reformed Church.

At the vesper service at the First Dutch Church in addition to the excellent Easter music three hundred pictures will be distributed of Smyrna the site of one of "The Seven Churches of Asia" addressed by St. John in the Book of Revelation. This beautiful picture was taken from the deck of a vessel in the bay of Smyrna showing in the foreground the always rough waters of the bay. Mount Fagus rises in the background and although the distance was several miles the details of the picture are so good (it being taken by a magnifying lens) that the outlines of trees are clearly seen on the summit.

The tomb of Polycarp one of the disciples of St. John is on the summit and the site of his martyrdom, the ancient stadium where he was burnt to death is near by. While taking a picture of this tomb which is near a Turkish barracks a guard leveled his gun at Dr. Leeper and commanded him to dismantle his apparatus, this he did but in doing so succeeded in getting the picture. The program will be as follows:

Hymn—257 H. H. Anthem—Awake Thou that Sleepest F. C. Maker Scripture Lesson and Prayer. Violin Solo—To the Evening Star.....Wagner

Ford Hummel, from Tannhauser Hymn—110 H. H. Sermon—"The Smyrna Crown".....Dr. Leeper Hymn—106 H. H. followed by the Apostles' Creed in unison. Organ—"Resurrection Morn".....Edward F. Johnston

HOW TO GET A NEW CHARTER.

Some of the difficulties in the way of getting a new and scientifically constructed charter for the City of Kingston have been removed by Governor Glynn's action in signing the Murtaugh-Sullivan optional city charter bill. Under this act seven different forms of charters are offered for second and third class cities to choose from, if they desire to do so. They comprise all the different devices for municipal government which have received favor throughout the country, and are alike only in the particular that they provide for as near an approximation to home rule and the short ballot as is possible.

Two of these optional forms are variations of the commission form of government. Another provides for a hired "City Manager," such as Olean is about to have. Another provides for a mayor and council of three or five members elected at large. Another is like it except that it makes a council of nine. Still another provides that the councilmen shall be elected from the wards. The last allows third class cities to adopt the uniform second class city charter with the salaries at a lower figure. Under all these plans the terms of mayors and councilmen are for four years. We cannot devote more space to a synopsis of the act, inasmuch as it will be printed in full in The Freeman before it goes into effect on July 15.

This is the way in which the people of Kingston can secure advantage from the law. Thirty days after it takes effect a petition signed by ten per cent of the voters of the city may be presented to the common council, asking that one of these seven plans be submitted to popular vote at a special election later on. Only one can be voted on at a time. If it is adopted it cannot be repealed until four years have elapsed. It adopted this fall, the new charter would not take effect until January 1, 1916, so that it would in no way interfere with our existing city administration.

It seems to us that under these circumstances we should be able to secure a charter which would be a great improvement on the existing one. It would be the work of experts—not of politicians. It is necessary only for somebody to start the ball rolling.

The text of the treaty between the United States and Colombia, which was reported to contain an apology for the "taking" of Panama has leaked out. The word "apologize" is not used, but it is stated that the United States "expresses sincere regret for anything that may have interrupted or altered the relations of cordial friendship existing long between the two nations." This is practically the same as saying that the United States regrets what Roosevelt did as President and afterwards boasted of. So far as we recall, the acts of a former President have never yet been repudiated, and it will be exciting to see how the Senate handles this novel proposition. Let us hope that the Colonel will be back in time to take a hand in the debate over the question whether he is a thief and pirate.

The Republican County Committee of New York has gone on record almost unanimously in opposition to the holding of an informal state convention or conference this year. State Chairman William Barnes and District Attorney Whitman are also opposed to the idea. Job Hedges is for it. There is a wide divergence of opinion among the party leaders of the state on this subject. The Democratic party leaders are also divided and are understood to be waiting to see what the Republicans do, with a view to following their example. Believers in the utility of party conventions, which the Glynn law abolished, believe that if the law is permitted to work without interference its results will so disgust the people that its repeal will speedily be accomplished. They also believe that unless extra-legal conventions are held, the ticket named at the primaries will be ill-balanced and unsatisfactory in many ways. This makes the choice hard from the politician's standpoint, but it seems to most disinterested citizens that it is more important to have a good ticket in the field than

It is to put Governor Glynn in a hole. It is not advisable to sacrifice the public interest in order to show that your opponent has made a fool of himself. The average voter can grasp a fact without having it kicked into him.

HIS SERMON.

(By Our Woman Editor.)

"One person I have to make good: myself. But my duty to my neighbor is much more nearly expressed by saying that I have to make him happy—if I may."—From the Christmas sermon (Robert Louis Stevenson).

Isn't that delightfully practical? It begins, we remember, with the statement that some folk in the world have the notion that their mission is to work upon the bad in their neighbors—and by "neighbors," more often than not, they mean the nearest in their own homes—and make it flower into the good. But Stevenson gently reminds them that they have troubles of their own, so far as badness goes, without attempting to make over their neighbors.

It is only Stevenson's pretty way of telling us all to play and to work in our "own back yards," those yards where character weaknesses grow and where bad habits thrive if let alone to shoot up as they may. And, reading between the lines, we know that he means to warn us against self-satisfaction—self-righteousness, perhaps is better. Because it is so easy to turn a brief little, kind little look upon ourselves and be right well pleased with the look, skipping the very things that most offend our neighbors. Then to glance again and again at the folk we meet in our most intimate travels and to be shocked at their awful shortcomings that we conceive it almost a duty to help them "be good."

But—"One person I have to make good: myself."

As to the rest, the happiness part, one really believes that if we went about that labor of love half so earnestly as Stevenson did, the personal goodness might safely be trusted to look after itself. Because when we thoughtfully try to figure out the far reaches of that one great effort to make others happy, it seems as if everything beautiful and good and unselfish must come sweeping along in its trail.

Succeeding in that, we just couldn't help being good.

But Stevenson, when he says that his supreme duty to his neighbor is to make him happy does well to add—"If I may." Because that is much more than he said. It means among a few sacrifices else, willing blindness to some things not liked so very well; and everybody knows that that kind of blindness is pretty hard to acquire. But not nearly so difficult if, all the while, we keep pegging away out there in the tangled wilderness of our back yards. For there is so much planting and pruning and weeding and tending to be done right there that we find little enough time to worry about others.

And besides, the more we work upon ourselves the more tolerant we grow of our neighbors, because—"A fellow feeling makes one wondrous kind," you know.

And isn't it strange that the best-intentioned effort in the world to make other folk good is almost certain to end in failure, except as effort is made through the quiet way of example? There's resentment, there's retaliation, there's everything but reform. Among friends—but they cease to be friends; and among folk in the home—they just count it "nagging." And when that begins, happiness takes speedy wings.

So, when we feel an impulse stirring within us to try to make anyone good,—particularly anyone for whom we care very much—let us try desperately hard to remember that one little word, "myself," and then bear in mind the rest: "I have to make him happy."

And the chances are that as the other grows happy he will be quite "good" enough to respond to our own modest measure.

Some thoughts sent adrift by the very best minds we read and forget all too soon, but this is one we can afford to tuck away very safely and within easy reach all the time, because if we can succeed in the duty, the pleasure, whatever you will, of making the folk nearest us happy—well, we shall be sure of one royal little crown, if no more.

And for that reason it might well become almost a prayer—

"One person I have to make good: myself. But my duty to my neighbor is much more nearly expressed by saying that I have to make him happy—if I may."

FRANCES SHAFFER.

Four Tramps Driven Out.

Frank Ross, Joseph Barbara, Frank Romano and Peter Pansarella, four Italian tramps, were arrested Friday night in the south yard of the West Shore railroad by Policeman Fout. The men had alighted from a freight train and started a fire along the tracks to cook their evening meal. When arraigned this morning before Recorder Grogan they were discharged after being warned to get out of town.

DOLLAR A DAY SALE
NEXT WEDNESDAY

Worcester inaugurated its first "Dollar Day" on Saturday, March 28, and despite the most unfavorable weather conditions it was an unqualified success. This method of attracting trade was new to Worcester merchants but its success in other cities, particularly in the west, convinced the Mercantile Bureau that it could be operated with similar success here in Worcester. Consequently the matter was brought up at a meeting of the Mercantile Committee, unanimously endorsed and through the initiative of this bureau all Worcester merchants were interested in the project.

The manner in which the merchants co-operated in this first general movement since the establishment of the bureau, on January 1, was a source of gratification to every member of the Mercantile Committee. They ran special advertisements in the newspapers, featuring a wide variety of articles which would be on sale for one dollar on March 28 only.

The way in which the people responded to their efforts repaid every merchant who offered these special inducements. Though it rained continually throughout the day, the stores were thronged with people buying here and there, as they saw some unusual attractive bargain which could be theirs for a dollar bill. The suburban patronage was exceedingly large, considering the weather, the street railway officials reporting considerably heavier traffic for a stormy Saturday.

The success of "Dollar Day" has made the affair an annual event, with this distinct advantage hoped for in another year—fair weather.

Kingston is to have its "Dollar Day" on Wednesday, April 22, when Kingston merchants will do all that was done in Worcester and then some, in the way of offering bargains.

Vesper at First Reformed Church.

At the vesper service at the First Dutch Church in addition to the excellent Easter music three hundred pictures will be distributed or Smyrna the site of one of "The Seven Churches of Asia" addressed by St. John in the Book of Revelation. This beautiful picture was taken from the deck of a vessel in the bay of Smyrna showing in the foreground the always rough waters of the bay. Mount Fagus rises in the background and although the distance was several miles the details of the picture are so good (it being taken by a magnifying lens) that the outlines of trees are clearly seen on the summit.

The tomb of Polycarp one of the disciples of St. John is on the summit and the site of his martyrdom, the ancient stadium where he was burnt to death, is near by. While taking a picture of this tomb which is near a Turkish barracks a guard leveled his gun at Dr. Leeper and commanded him to dismantle his apparatus. This he did but in doing so succeeded in getting the picture. The program will be as follows:

WINDY SESSION OF THE ALDERMEN

New Committee Appointed Under Amended Rules After Much Oratory—Pay Roll Audited After Being Once Rejected.

The board of aldermen held a long session on Friday night, most of the evening being devoted to hot air. During the session the rules were amended so that a new list of standing committees proposed by Alderman McCullough was appointed. Oratory was spilled at the slightest provocation and the "rights of the laboring man," and other favorite topics were discussed. The pay rolls were held up by a solid vote of the insurgents until after the new committees were named.

Requisitions of the janitor and board of health were read and referred to the supply committee. Aldermen Martin and McCullough contended there were no committees as President Connolly was holding the chair illegally inasmuch as Alderman Zeeh had been enjoined from acting. Nothing came of this, however. Alderman McKittick moved to audit the pay rolls and issue warrants but it was lost by a vote of 7 to 6.

Alderman Schick said it was an outrage to deprive the city's workmen of their due wages. City Treasurer Powell reported a balance in the city treasury on April 1 of $125,693.18. Filed.

The treasurer also reported that a note for Lucas avenue sewer was due on April 21, but the special assessment was not collected in full. The note was ordered renewed on motion of Alderman Martin.

The public service commission sent in a communication stating that the plans for the viaduct on Washington avenue had been modified so as to provide for a brick roadway instead of concrete. Filed.

Mayor Connelley sent in his disapproval of the resolution of Alderman Myer for an arc light at Prospect and Cedar streets, owing to a question as to the legality of a contract entered into between Mayor Irwin and the Kingston Gas and Electric Company. The mayor stated that the matter would probably be contested in the courts. When the matter was put to a vote the veto was sustained.

Alderman McCullough offered a resolution reciting that as there were no legal committees appointed and as the aldermen had been enjoined adversely on their responsibility for the holding up of bills that rule 4 be amended and the committees for 1914 be appointed by the common council and in 1915 by the presiding officer.

President Connolly declared the resolution out of order. Alderman Martin appealed from the decision of the chair. The chair stated that his position as president had been upheld by these courts and although the council had laid his committee on the table they were legally appointed. He did not see how the aldermen could hold up the city's business in the face of three court decisions.

Alderman Zeeh declared he had not laid up the city's business. As to debating the question he thought the aldermen should do it from the floor of the house.

Alderman Moyle said it was an attempt to play to the galleries on the part of the Democratic aldermen. "Didn't they just vote to refuse to audit the pay rolls?" he asked.

Alderman Schick—"I am surprised at Alderman Martin. He has always stuck by the laboring man and in his Labor Advocate is strong for him, but comes here and refuses to pay him his just dues. It is a shame."

President Connolly called Alderman Smith to the chair. The chair said he and Alderman Zeeh had both been accused of holding up the city's business but he himself had suggested a compromise. He would appoint any committees the aldermen wanted if the understanding was that their life should be only until a court decision had been rendered. He was willing to do anything to save trouble and expedite the city's business.

Alderman McCullough said he had as much right as Alderman Connolly to appoint committees. The chair said he had the right to appoint committees.

Alderman Schick moved to adjourn. Lost.

Alderman Smith again declared the motion of Alderman McCullough out of order. Alderman Martin appealed. In the meantime Alderman Schick amended that the committees be appointed by the whole of the council in office. Lost.

Alderman Moyle moved to adjourn. Lost.

Alderman Smith refused to put the McCullough motion and Alderman Martin put it. Seven votes were recorded in the affirmative and the resolution declared by Alderman Martin carried.

Alderman Zeeh moved to reconsider the resolution as to auditing the pay rolls and warrants were then ordered issued.

Alderman McCullough handed up the following list of standing committees which were adopted:

Auditing—Aldermen Martin, McCullough and Schlip.
Finance, ways and means—Aldermen Schlip, Myers and Jenks.
Streets—Aldermen Jenks, Leverich, Mitchell, Smith and Schlip.
Gas and Electricity—Aldermen Mitchell, Smith and Schlip.
Supplies—Aldermen Schlip, Jenks, Smith and Myers.
Roads—Aldermen Schlip, Schick, Mitchell.
Laws and rules—Aldermen Jenks, Schlip, Mitchell, Moyle and Myers.
Public buildings—Aldermen Myers, Schlip, Mitchell, Connolly, Smith.
Elections—Aldermen Myers, McKittick and Jenks.
Sale of property acquired at tax sale—Aldermen Jenks, Mitchell, Connolly.
Charter revision—Aldermen McCullough, Martin, Schlip, Zeeh, mayor and corporation counsel.
The following resolutions were then introduced by Alderman Martin, that an arc light be placed at Lucas avenue and Voorhis street. Referred to ways and means committee.

Alderman Leverich, that street superintendent open ditches on Wilbur street. Referred with power.

By Alderman Mitchell, that gutter be laid on Newkirk avenue at Chamber street. Referred to street committee.

By Alderman Martin, that street superintendent relay sidewalk on Washington avenue near Main street. Referred to street committee.

By Alderman Schlip, that Second avenue be repaired. Referred to street committee.

By Alderman Martin, that street superintendent raise sidewalks at Washington avenue and North Front street and at Washington avenue and Hurley avenue. Referred to street committee.

By Alderman Schlip, that Moore street be repaired and rock taken out. Referred to street committee.

By Alderman Schlip, that Delaware avenue be finished as per original resolution. Referred to street committee.

By Alderman Martin, that clerk report to council at its next meeting amount of unpaid bills against the city. Carried.

By Alderman Moyle, that West Chester street be rolled as the residents wish to have same rolled. Referred to street committee.

By Alderman Leverich, that street superintendent repair bridge on Delaware avenue between North and Washington streets. Referred to street committee.

By Alderman McCullough, that Pierpont street be top dressed from Adams to Ravine street and concrete be used on O'Neill street. Referred to street committee.

By Alderman Mitchell, that Pierpont street from Hasbrouck avenue to bottom of hill be repaired. Referred to street committee.

Alderman Martin offered an ordinance prohibiting posting of bills on buildings within fifty feet of street line, the offense to be a misdemeanor punishable by a fine of $50 or six months imprisonment or both fine and imprisonment. Carried.

By Alderman Zeeh, that President's Place be topdressed and rolled. Referred to street committee.

Alderman Schlip offered an amendment to Rule 11 so that the supply committee could purchase supplies in emergencies not to exceed $25 and limiting the street superintendent to $10 purchases. At present it is $25. Seven votes were recorded in the affirmative. The council then adjourned.

Striking Window Display.

A window display more than ordinarily attractive is that of Gregory &amp; Company. In one of the stores large windows has been erected a pergola, immaculate white and gaily decorated with crimson and gold. It is a veritable Venetian palazzo. Within its confines are tastefully arranged crisply new willow furniture, hammocks, etc. At night electric portables, with their vibrant-colored glass tops, lend the scene an air of beauty that is nothing short of charming.

Bowling Match This Evening.

There will be a bowling match on the Y. M. C. A. alleys this evening between two teams from the local office of the New York Telephone Co. At the same time there will be teams bowling in Albany, Buffalo, Jersey City, Syracuse, West Chester, Long Island and New York city. A special long distance wire will be installed in the alleys and so keep the local men in touch with what the men in other cities are doing.

WINDY SESSION OF THE ALDERMEN

New Committee Appointed Under Amended Rules After Much Oratory—Pay Roll Audited After Being Once Rejected.

The board of aldermen held a long session on Friday night, most of the evening being devoted to hot air. During the session the rules were amended so that a new list of standing committees proposed by Alderman McCullough was appointed. Oratory was spilled at the slightest provocation and the "rights of the laboring man," and other favorite topics were discussed. The pay rolls were held up by a solid vote of the insurgents until after the new committees were named.

Requisitions of the janitor and board of health were read and referred to the supply committee. Aldermen Martin and McCullough contended there were no committees as President Connolly was holding the chair illegally inasmuch as Alderman Zeeh had been enjoined from acting. Nothing came of this, however. Alderman McKittick moved to audit the pay rolls and issue warrants but it was lost by a vote of 7 to 6.

Alderman Schick said it was an outrage to deprive the city's workmen of their due wages.

City Treasurer Powell reported a balance in the city treasury on April 1 of $125,663.18. Filed.

The treasurer also reported that a note for Lucas avenue sewer was due on April 21, but the special assessment was not collected in full. The note was ordered renewed on motion of Alderman Martin.

The public service commission sent in a communication stating that the plans for the viaduct on Washington avenue had been modified so as to provide for a brick roadway instead of concrete. Filed.

Mavor Canfield sent in his disapproval of the resolution of Alderman Myer for an arc light at Prospect and Cedar streets owing to a question as to the legality of a contract entered into between Mavor Irwin and the Kingston Gas and Electric Company. The mavor stated that the matter would probably be contested in the courts. When the matter was put to a vote the veto was sustained.

Alderman McCullough offered a resolution reciting that as there were no local committees appointed and as the aldermen had been criticized severely as being responsible for the holding up of bills the committee for 1914 be appointed by the common council and in 1915 by the presiding officer.

President Connolly declared the resolution out of order. Alderman Martin appealed from the decision of the chair. The chair stated that his position as president had been upheld by three courts and although the council had laid his committees on the table they were legally appointed. He did not see how the aldermen could hold up the city's business in the face of three court decisions.

Alderman Zeeh declared he had not held up the city's business. As to debating the question he thought the aldermen should do it from the floor of the house.

Alderman Moyle said it was an attempt to play to the galleries on the part of the Democratic aldermen. "Didn't they just vote to refuse to audit the pay rolls?" he asked.

Alderman Schick—"I am surprised at Alderman Martin. He has always stuck by the laboring man and in his Labor Advocate is strong for him, but comes here and refuses to pay him his just dues. It is a shame."

President Connolly called Alderman Smith to the chair. The chair said he and Alderman Zeeh had both been accused of holding up the city's business but he himself had supported a compromise. He would appoint any committees the aldermen wanted if the understanding was that their life should be only until a court decision had been rendered. He was willing to do anything to save trouble and expedite the city's business.

Alderman McCullough said he had as much right as Alderman Connolly to appoint committees.

The chair said he had the approval of three judges, that he had the right to appoint committees.

Alderman Schick moved to adjourn. Lost.

Alderman Smith again declared the motion of Alderman McCullough out of order. Alderman Martin appealed. In the meantime Alderman Schick amended that the committees be appointed by the whole of the council in office. Lost.

Alderman Moyle moved to adjourn. Lost.

Alderman Smith refused to put the McCullough motion and Alderman Martin put it. Seven votes were recorded in the affirmative and the resolution declared by Alderman Martin carried.

Alderman Zeeh moved to reconsider the resolution as to auditing the pay rolls and warrants were then ordered issued.

Alderman McCullough handed up the following list of standing committees which were adopted:

Auditing—Aldermen Martin, McCullough and Schlip.

Finance, ways and means—Aldermen Schlip, Myers and Jenks.

Streets—Aldermen Jenks, Leverich, Mitchell, Smith and Schlip.

Gas and Electricity—Aldermen Mitchell, Smith and Schlip.

Supplies—Aldermen Schlip, Jenks, Smith and Myers.

Railroads—Aldermen Schlip, Schick, Mitchell.

Laws and rules—Aldermen Jenks, Schlip, Mitchell, Moyle and Myers.

Public buildings—Aldermen Myers, Schlip, Mitchell, Connolly, Smith.

Elections—Aldermen Myers, McKittick and Jenks.

Sale of property acquired at tax sale—Aldermen Jenks, Mitchell, Connolly.

Charter revision—Aldermen McCullough, Martin, Schlip, Zeeh, mavor and corporation counsel.

The following resolutions were then introduced.

By Alderman Martin, that an arc light be placed at Lucas avenue and Voorhis street. Referred to ways and means committee.

Alderman Leverich, that street superintendent open ditches on Wilbur street. Referred with power.

By Alderman Mitchell, that gutter be laid on Newkirk avenue at Chamber street. Referred to street committee.

By Alderman Martin, that street superintendent relay sidewalk on Washington avenue near Main street. Referred to street committee.

By Alderman Schlip, that Second avenue be repaired. Referred to street committee.

By Alderman Martin, that street superintendent raise sidewalks at Washington avenue and North Front street and at Washington avenue and Hurley avenue. Referred to street committee.

By Alderman Schlip, that Moore street be repaired and rock taken out. Referred to street committee.

By Alderman Schlip, that Delaware avenue be finished as per original resolution. Referred to street committee.

By Alderman Martin, that clerk report to council at its next meeting amount of unpaid bills against the city. Carried.

By Alderman Moyle, that West Chester street be rolled as the residents wish to have same rolled. Referred to street committee.

By Alderman Leverich, that street superintendent repair bridge on Delaware avenue between North and Washington streets. Referred to street committee.

By Alderman McCullough, that Pierpont street be top dressed from Adams to Ravine street and concrete be used as on O'Neil street. Referred to street committee.

By Alderman Mitchell, that Pierpont street from Hasbrouck avenue to bottom of hill be repaired. Referred to street committee.

Alderman Martin offered an ordinance prohibiting posting of bills on buildings within fifty feet of street line, the offense to be a misdemeanor punishable by a fine of $50 or six months imprisonment or both fine and imprisonment. Carried.

By Alderman Zeeh, that President's Place be topdressed and rolled. Referred to street committee.

Alderman Schlip offered an amendment to Rule 11 so that the supply committee could purchase supplies in emergencies not to exceed $25 and limiting the street superintendent to $10 purchases. At present it is $25. Seven votes were recorded in the affirmative.

The council then adjourned.

ROSENDALE.

Rosedale, April 18.—The Misses Mildred and Myrtle Moller of Clifton, N. J., are visiting relatives in town.

Miss Mame Whalen, who teaches school in Greater New York, was a visitor in this village the past week. Roy Veeder of Kingston was in town on Friday.

Jennie LeFever and Mildred and Myrtle Moller spent Saturday with Miss Beale DeWitt in New Paltz.

John Odell and Earl Zugalla returned from a trip to Troy and Mechanicville on Thursday.

Mrs. Mary Dunbar of Kingston has been caring for Mrs. Northrup the past week.

Warren Beckman of Yonkers is visiting his father, Rev. J. A. Beckman.

Mrs. Dupuy Davis is still quite ill. William Embree of Tillson has moved in the house of Mrs. Kate Snyder recently vacated by Russell Freer.

Luther Doye still remains quite ill. Mrs. Louisa Roosa entertained a few friends at dinner on Thursday.

A large band of Gypsies passed through this village on Monday.

Mrs. Jacob Hasbrouck of Hoboken and Mrs. Mary E. Dill of New Paltz attended the funeral of Mrs. Alexander Morgan on Sunday.

Charles Ten Hagen has gone to Dr. Sadler's hospital where he will undergo an operation.

The minstrels were a financial success. Much credit is due the young people who worked so hard to give such a pleasing entertainment.

Cy Canfield and wife left for Montgomery on Friday, where Mr. Canfield has a position with DeGraff & Hogeboom, the state road contractors.

The New Paltz Normal students resumed their duties on Tuesday after a vacation of ten days.

Striking Window Display.

A window display more than ordinarily attractive is that of Gregory & Company. In one of the stores large windows has been erected a pergola, immaculately white and prettily trimmed with crimson ramblers. It is a veritable Venetian palazzo. Within its confines are tastefully arranged crisply new willow furniture, hammocks, etc. At night electric portables, with their vari-colored glass tops, lend the scene an air of beauty that is nothing short of charming.

Bowling Match This Evening.

There will be a bowling match on the Y. M. C. A. alleys this evening between two teams from the local office of the New York Telephone Co. At the same time there will be teams bowling in Albany, Buffalo, Jersey City, Syracuse, West Chester, Long Island and New York city. A special long distance wire will be installed in the alleys and so keep the local men in touch with what the men in other cities are doing.

K. OF C. DEDICATION SUNDAY AFTERNOON

The dedication services of the handsome new club house of the Knights of Columbus, the corner of Broadway and Andrew street, will be held on Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock, and will be attended by members of the order only. It is expected that over one thousand knights from other cities will be in attendance and a very large committee of the local order has been appointed to take charge of the details in connection with the dedication and opening and this committee has been divided into various sub-committees.

On Tuesday morning at 11 o'clock the building will be thrown open for public inspection and will remain open all day until 12 o'clock that night. A reception committee will be present to show visitors through the building.

The Dedication Committee.

The committee appointed for the dedication services on Sunday are: Joseph F. Sullivan, chairman; P. T. Murphy, secretary; J. E. Mahar, W. D. Cashion, T. J. O'Hara, M. J. Cashion, J. B. Rafferty, M. M. Byrne, J. F. Dwyer, V. A. Gorman, William Roach, W. H. Grogan, W. E. Rafferty, W. Dugan, E. P. Messinger, A. J. Cook, J. J. Campbell, E. T. McGill, P. J. Halloran, J. C. Hurley, F. L. Meagher, J. R. Higley, J. R. Howard, Jacob Rice, E. Weiss, J. A. Flynn, George Lepert, John Terakay, F. McCaffrey, D. Freer, P. Wenzel, A. Winter, W. O'Reilly, J. F. McGraw, J. P. Whalen, J. J. O'Connor, W. E. Abernethy, John Cronin, J. Conlin, P. J. Gilson, J. B. Glennon, R. H. McCutcheon, E. F. Flanagan, J. F. Feldman, J. Woods, W. Schatzel, J. Schatzel, J. J. Larkin, C. J. Mullen, C. Weiss, P. J. Fogarty, C. Kettner, W. B. Martin, L. M. Kenney, T. J. Hickey.

in the office of Cornelius T. Driscoll and Daniel Colwell, both of whom were then holding public office in the city of New Haven, Conn.

The charter members were: The Rev. Michael J. McGivney, who is generally spoken of as the founder of the order; James T. Mullen, Daniel Colwell, Cornelius T. Driscoll, John T. Kerrigan, Matthew C. O'Connor, M. D. William M. Geary and the Rev. P. P. Lawlor. James T. Mullen was the first supreme knight of the order. The first council organized was called San Salvador Council, No. 1.

Beginning with eight charter members the order has grown in the thirty-two years of its existence until now it has spread over the entire United States, into Canada, down into Mexico and even down to Panama and out to the Philippines. It numbers now 97,495 Insurance and 201,411 associate members, a total of 298,906. There are in this great Empire state alone 45,023 Knights of Columbus members, 213 councils. There are in the various funds of the Supreme Council at the present time the sum of $4,522,415.26.

Among the great things achieved by the Knights of Columbus, the founding of the Chair of Secular History in the Catholic University at Washington, at a cost of $50,000, and the establishment of an endowment fund of $500,000 for the same institution, stand out prominently.

The present Supreme officers are as follows: James A. Flaherty, supreme knight; Martin H. Carmody, deputy supreme knight; William J. McGivney, supreme secretary; D. J. Callahan, supreme treasurer; Joseph C. Pelletier, supreme advocate; Dr. E. W. Buckley, supreme physician; the Rev. P. J. McGivney, supreme chaplain; Thomas J. McLaughlin, supreme warden.

Kingston Council, No. 275, Knights of Columbus, was organized in the city of Kingston on October 24, 1897, the organizer being Dr. E. J. Gallagher, now of Yonkers, N. Y. He was greatly assisted in this work by District Deputy Stephen Moran, of Albany. The first and second degrees were conferred by Albany Council, and the third degree was in charge of District Deputy Richard

O'Reilly, advocate; James V. Halloran, lecturer; Frank McCaffrey, inside guard; David Freer, outside guard; Mark O'Meara, M. D., physician; the Rev. John J. Hickey, chaplain; William D. Cashion, Martin J. Cashion, Thomas J. O'Hara, board of trustees.

For a number of years past the council has felt that it would be a great help to the organization if they could erect a building of their own, where the members might meet in social intercourse. Committees were named, plans devised and a large amount of money raised for a building fund, which was set aside for that especial purpose. Various sites had been looked over and the matter of club rooms discussed until finally the question was brought to a head by the appointment of a committee last year by Grand Knight Mahar for the purpose of selecting a site for the new club house. The committee finally decided upon the location on which the building is now being erected—corner of Broadway and Andrew street. The wisdom of their choice is shown by the fact that the home will be one of a group of public buildings which now adorn the central part of this city, viz: The City Hall, the Public Library, the Kingston City Hospital, the State Armory, the U. S. Post office and the new Central High School which is soon to be erected in the near vicinity.

This council of the Knights of Columbus has always been among the first to bear its full share of the various works of public good undertaken by the national body, as well as those of a local character, which itself has undertaken. Among the projects which it has assisted in was the endowment of the Chair of Secular History at Washington University. In 1911 it completed the payment of $485 as its share of the Catholic University Endowment Fund and its local charities have been conducted in the true spirit of charity, whatever aid which has been rendered to distressed brothers being given by a committee for that purpose and not even the members of the council are informed of the names of the recipients or the amount of the aid so received. It has taken an active interest in

Manufacturers, Read This

A new era in advertising and selling has arrived—the co-operative era.

It means a pulling-together between you manufacturers and the retailers who sell your goods.

It means a wider, better, and more economical distribution for your goods.

It means also the use of the newspapers as the basis of your advertising campaigns.

The Knights of Columbus is distinctly an American order. Its aims are patriotic from the standpoint of Americanism, and religious from the standpoint of Catholicity.

The Knights of Columbus was organized for the purpose of giving to the Catholic men of this country a fraternal order, with such insurance features as would guarantee stability. The first meeting to perfect the organization was held in the year 1881

K. OF C. DEDICATION SUNDAY AFTERNOON

The dedication services of the handsome new club house of the Knights of Columbus, the corner of Broadway and Andrew street, will be held on Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock, and will be attended by members of the order only. It is expected that over one thousand knights from other cities will be in attendance and a very large committee of the local order has been appointed to take charge of the details in connection with the dedication and opening and this committee has been divided into various sub-committees.

On Tuesday morning at 11 o'clock the building will be thrown open for public inspection and will remain open all day until 12 o'clock that night. A reception committee will be present to show visitors through the building.

The Dedication Committee.

The committee appointed for the dedication services on Sunday are: Joseph E. Sullivan, chairman; P. T. Murphy, secretary; J. E. Maher, W. D. Cashion, T. J. O'Hara, M. J. Cashion, J. B. Rafferty, M. M. Byrne, J. F. Dwyer, V. A. Gorman, William Roach, W. H. Grogan, W. E. Rafferty, W. Dugan, E. P. Messinger, A. J. Cook, J. J. Campbell, E. T. McCull, P. J. Halloran, J. C. Hurley, P. L. Meagher, J. R. Higley, J. R. Howard, Jacob Rice, E. Weiss, J. A. Flynn, George Lepert, John Terakay, F. McCaffrey, D. Freer, P. Wenzel, A. Winter, W. O'Reilly, J. F. McGraw, J. P. Whalen, J. O'Connor, W. E. Abernethy, John Cronin, J. Conlin, P. J. Gilson, J. B. Glennon, R. H. McCutcheon, E. E. Flanagan, J. F. Feldman, J. Woods, W. Schatzel, J. Schatzel, J. Larkin, C. J. Mullen, C. Weiss, P. J. Fogarty, C. Ketterer, W. B. Martin, L. M. Kenney, T. J. Hickey.

in the office of Cornelius T. Driscoll and Daniel Colwell, both of whom were then holding public office in the city of New Haven, Conn.

The charter members were: The Rev. Michael J. McGivney, who is generally spoken of as the founder of the order; James T. Mullen, Daniel Colwell, Cornelius T. Driscoll, John T. Kerrigan, Matthew C. O'Connor, M. D. William M. Geary and the Rev. P. P. Lawlor. James T. Mullen was the first supreme knight of the order. The first council organized was called San Salvador Council, No. 1.

Beginning with eight charter members the order has grown in the thirty-two years of its existence until now it has spread over the entire United States, into Canada, down into Mexico and even down to Panama and out to the Philippines. It numbers now 97,495 insurance and 201,411 associate members, a total of 208,906. There are in this great Empire state alone 45,023 Knights of Columbus members in 213 councils. There are in the various funds of the Supreme Council at the present time the sum of $4,522,415.26.

Among the great things achieved by the Knights of Columbus, the founding of the Chair of Secular History in the Catholic University at Washington, at a cost of $50,000, and the establishment of an endowment fund of $500,000 for the same institution, stand out prominently.

The present Supreme officers are as follows: James A. Flaherty, supreme knight; Martin H. Carmody, deputy supreme knight; William J. McGinley, supreme secretary; J. D. Callahan, supreme treasurer; Joseph C. Pelletier, supreme advocate; Dr. E. W. Buckley, supreme physician; the Rev. P. J. McGivney, supreme chaplain; Thomas J. McLaughlin, supreme warden.

Kingston Council, No. 275, Knights of Columbus, was organized in the city of Kingston on October 21, 1897, the organizer being Dr. E. J. Gallagher, now of Newburgh, N. Y. He was greatly assisted in this work by District Deputy Stephen Moran of Albany. The first and second degrees were conferred by Albany Council, and the third degree was in charge of District Deputy Richard

O'Reilly, advocate; James V. Halloran, lecturer; Frank McCaffrey, inside guard; David Freer, outside guard; Mark O'Meara, M. D., physician; the Rev. John J. Hickey, chaplain; William D. Cashion, Martin J. Cashion, Thomas J. O'Hara, board of trustees.

For a number of years past the council has felt that it would be a great help to the organization if they could erect a building of their own, where the members might meet in social intercourse. Committees were named, plans devised and a large amount of money raised for that special purpose. Various sites had been looked over and the matter of club rooms discussed until finally the question was brought to a head by the appointment of a committee last year by Grand Knight Mahar for the purpose of selecting a site for the new club house. The committee finally decided upon the location on which the building is now being erected—corner of Broadway and Andrew street. The wisdom of their choice is shown by the fact that the home will be one of a group of public buildings which will adorn the central part of this city, viz: The City Hall, the Public Library, the Kingston City Hospital, the State Armory, the U. S. Post office and the new Central High School which is soon to be erected in the near vicinity.

This council of the Knights of Columbus has always been among the first to bear its full share of the various works of public good undertaken by the national body, as well as those of a local character, which itself has undertaken. Among the projects which it has assisted in is the endowment of the Chair of Secular History at Washington University. In 1911 it completed the payment of $485 as its share of the Catholic University Endowment fund, and its local charities have been conducted in the true spirit of charity, whatever aid which has been rendered to distressed brothers being given by a committee for that purpose and not even the members of the council are informed of the names of the recipients or the amount of the aid so received.

OUR DAILY PATTERN.

9900.—A Simple But Attractive Model.—Ladies' Apron.

Percaline, lawn, cambric, gingham, brilliantine or sateen may be used for this design. It is easily made, is comfortable and the bib affords protection for the upper part of the dress. The style is neat and dressy. If made of lawn the free edges could be trimmed with lace or embroidery or finished with feather stitching or buttonhole stitched scallops, in self or contrasting color. A serviceable office apron could be made of black sateen stitched in red. The pattern is cut in 3 sizes: Small, medium and large. It requires 5 yards of 27 inch material for a medium size. A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 10 cents in silver or stamps by the Pattern Department, The Freeman, Rondout, N. Y. Be sure to state the size wanted.

Catalogue Notice.

Send 10 cents in silver or stamps for our up-to-date 1914 Spring and Summer Catalogue, containing over 400 designs of Ladies' Misses' and Children's Patterns; also a concise and comprehensive article on dress-making, giving valuable hints to the home dressmaker.

New District Superintendent Here.

The Rev. Thomas H. Baragwanath, recently appointed by Bishop Wilson as district superintendent of the Kingston district, arrived in Kingston today, accompanied by Mrs. Baragwanath. They will make their home here and will be given a reception in St. James Church next Friday evening. The district superintendent will preach in the St. James Church, Pearl and Fair streets, Sunday morning and, as this is his first sermon in the district, a large congregation will, no doubt, assemble to hear the message. He is scheduled to preach in the evening at the Methodist Church in Port Ewen. Mr. Baragwanath is an expert motorist and will use his car in exploring the district of the Catskills of which he has charge.

A new era in advertising and selling has arrived—the co-operative era.

It means a pulling-together between you manufacturers and the retailers who sell your goods.

It means a wider, better, and more economical distribution for your goods.

It means also the use of the newspapers as the basis of your advertising campaigns.

There are in the various funds of the Supreme Council at the present time the sum of $4,522,415.26.

Among the great things achieved by the Knights of Columbus, the founding of the Chair of Secular History in the Catholic University at Washington, at a cost of $50,000, and the establishment of an endowment fund of $500,000 for the same institution, stand out prominently.

The present Supreme officers are as follows: James A. Flaherty, supreme knight; Martin H. Carmody, deputy supreme knight; William J. McGinley, supreme secretary; J. D. Callahan, supreme treasurer; Joseph C. Pelletier, supreme advocate; Dr. E. W. Buckley, supreme physician; the Rev. P. J. McGivney, supreme chaplain; Thomas J. McLaughlin, supreme warden.

Kingston Council, No. 275, Knights of Columbus, was organized in the city of Kingston on October 21, 1897, the organizer being Dr. E. J. Gallagher, now of Newburgh, N. Y. He was greatly assisted in this work by District Deputy Stephen Moran of Albany. The first and second degrees were conferred by Albany Council, and the third degree was in charge of District Deputy Richard

UNUSUAL FEAT RECALLS FEW ODD RECORDS

Max Carey, Pirate Outfielder.

Outfielder Max Carey of the Pirates turned in one of baseball's most remarkable performances at Forbes field recently, when he scored five runs without making a hit. Carey was charged with only one time at bat, reaching first base once on a fumble by Otto Knebe, the Phillies' second sacker, and the four other times on bases on balls. His four walks came in succession. Carey stole second base twice and third twice, a total of four steals, a feat in itself worthy of special mention.

In the first inning Carey reached first on Knebe's fumble, moved up to second on Kommer's walk, to third when Wagner was hit with a pitched ball, and scored on a passed ball by Catcher Killifer. In the second round Max walked, took third on a wild pitch, and crossed the plate on Kommer's single. In the fourth he stroled again, stole second and scored again on a solitaire by Kommer.

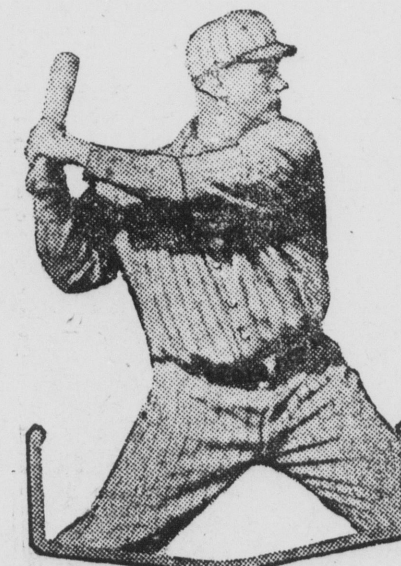

In the sixth he drew another pass, stole second and also third and completed the circuit when Wagner poked a single to left. In the eighth he got his fourth successive walk, advanced to second when Kommer also drew a pass, reached third by working the double steal with Kommer and registered on Wagner's single.

establish a record, even in the majors, the high mark being six passes, issued to Walter Wilmet on August 22, 1891, when he was a member of the Chicago Nationals.

The five runs scored by Carey also fell short of the record. In fact, this performance has been surpassed and by a Pittsburgh player, Clarence Beaumont, at Exposition park on July 22, 1899, when he scored six runs and made six hits in six times at bat, not one of his hits going out of the infield. Beaumont, who was a left-handed batter, made the record against a left-handed pitcher, Wiley Platt being on the slab for Philadelphia that day.

No other Pittsburgh player has stolen four bases in a game in a long time, but Carey did not approach the major league record when he pilfered a quartet of hassocks.

The best performance in that line on record is seven steals, which record was first established on June 25, 1881, when George Gore of the Chicago Nationals stole second base five times and third base twice in a game against Providence.

This record of seven steals has been equaled by only one man in the majors, Billy Hamilton, the once famous base runner for the Phillies and Boston.

After the season of 1908 he went to New York in a three-cornered deal made by New York, Cincinnati and St. Louis, in which New York turned Roger Bresnahan over to St. Louis. He has remained with the Giants since that time.

Cubs Have Great Pitchers.

If Hank O'Day is to be taken seriously the Cubs will have a great pitching corps this year. O'Day declares that in Cheney, Vaughn, Humphries, Pierce, Charley Smith and Lavender the Cubs will be remarkably well fortified in the box. O'Day is enthusiastic over the apparent rejuvenation of Lavender, who was a big winner in 1913. Hank says that Vaughn, the big left-hander who was a sensation after he joined the Cubs last summer, will repeat and that Pierce, a southpaw, will be a consistent winner. Since the acquisition of Second Baseman Bill Sweeney, O'Day firmly believes that the Cubs will be up with the leaders of the National league race all the way.

Simon Pedrick's Discovery

By JAMES CHANDLER

"What is the matter, Simon?" asked Mrs. Pedrick, glancing over her spectacles at her son's gloomily thoughtful countenance.

"Nothing, ma," returned Simon, heaving a deep sigh.

"Nothing? When you look like that? Simon Pedrick, you tell your ma what's troubling you, right off!" she warned as she came around the table and laid a strong hand on his shoulder.

"Well," sighed Simon resignedly, "I don't seem to amount to much, ma. Of course, I know that I've got the best candy store and soda business in West Hollow, but it don't satisfy my—my ambitions."

Mrs. Pedrick shook the fat shoulder impatiently.

"Not satisfied?" she mimicked in an exasperated manner. "Ambitions! Humph! I'd like to know what more "Stop thinking about Luella Finch and all her high educated friends. There's plenty of girls in West Hollow who'd jump at a chance to marry you, Simon, if you'd only perk up and go after 'em."

Simon shrugged his shoulders.

"I want to do something, be something—like him," he muttered moodily.

"Like who? Professor Tooley?"

"Yes," nodded Simon.

"What has he ever done?" challenged Mrs. Pedrick.

"He's explored, and dug up old relics, and discovered things; once he went on a voyage to the arctic regions, and the man he was with, the head explorer, he discovered new land up there, and he named it after a king. Ma, I'd like to do something like that! Luella thinks Tooley's covered with glory because he was with the man who discovered the new land, and—"

"And named it after a king!" snorted Mrs. Pedrick. "And you call yourself an American citizen! Simon Pedrick, do you know that your ancestors on both sides fought for this country's freedom—and now you're wishing you could discover an island so's to name it after a king—leastways you're envious of the man who did it."

"Ma, you'd never understand," sighed Simon, rising and reaching for his hat. "Nobody understands me."

With which gloomy reflection Mr. Pedrick went out into the January twilight.

A week later the little village of West Hollow was stirred to its depths by an announcement in the weekly newspaper.

Said the West Hollow Echo:

Our well known neighbor, Mr. Simon Pedrick, starts this morning on a very unique expedition to the polar regions. Mr. Pedrick, who is the proprietor of the popular Eden Confectionery Parlors, tells us that it is his intention to walk to the farthest borders of British North America. This expedition will occupy all of a couple of years, and Mr. Pedrick expects to obtain much interesting material for a book which he will write on his return. The Eden Confectionery Parlors will in the absence of Mr. Pedrick be under the able management of William Hicks, who has had charge of the soda fountain for several years. We extend our hearty good wishes for the success of this expedition and await with interest Mr. Pedrick's forthcoming book.

In another paragraph the Echo announced that its readers would be favored with weekly letters from Simon Pedrick giving an interesting account of his trip to the north country.

If the neighbors of Simon Pedrick were amazed at his action his mother was inflamed to indignation by the startling scheme.

"You shan't stir a step, Simon," she fumed vainly. "I forbid it!"

"Ma," said Simon firmly, "I'm forty years old. I've always minded you and been a good son. This is the thing I want to do most of all. I can afford

PUZZLING MUD LUMPS.

Clay Islands That Rise and Fall in the Mississippi River.

Within a mile or two of each of the mouths of the Mississippi the territory is characterized by large swellings or upheavals of tough bluish gray clay, to which has been applied the name of "mud lumps." Many of these mud lumps rise just off shore and form islands having a surface extent of an acre or more and a height of five or ten feet, but some do not reach the water surface.

These mud lumps, in addition to being of importance because of their effects on the channels of the Mississippi river, are also of considerable purely scientific interest, for their development is not included in the usual conception of delta growth, and although several theories have been advanced, their cause must still be regarded as uncertain. The mud lumps are commonly twenty to thirty rods broad and stand twenty or thirty feet above the adjacent bottom. Their growth occupies from a few hours to several years and is usually irregular.

Generally a mud lump rises in a few weeks or months to a height of four or five feet above the surface of the water. Then it remains quiet and is beaten down by the waves in the course of a few years. Many of them subside, however, and some disappear overnight. Those that rise slowly are considerably worn before they stop growing, while those that rise more rapidly and in protected places are capped by laminated silt having a maximum thickness of ten feet.

Among the most conspicuous and impressive features of the mud lumps are the mud springs that are active on many if not all of them. The discharge from these springs consists of salt, watery mud and gas. It is considered by some scientists that the mud lumps are produced by a gentle seaward flow of layers of semifluid clay under the land and the shallow water near the end of the passes. The mud lumps appear to be the product of flow, because in no other places have such thick bodies of clay been found.—Argonaut.

Quick Curtain.

Little Willie was left alone with sister's beau.

"Mr. Chumpley," he presently said, "what is a popinjay?"

Sister's beau wrinkled his forehead.

"Wh-why, a popinjay is a—a vain bird."

"Are you a bird, Mr. Chumpley?"

"Certainly not."

"That's a popinjay, and pa said there was no doubt about your bein' a jay, an' sister said there was small hopes of your poppin', an' now you say you ain't a bird at all. That's funny."

And just then sister came into the room.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Undischarged.

The pastor of a certain fashionable church in New York never neglects an opportunity to express disapproval of the extravagant use of cosmetics by the members of his congregation.

On one occasion he was present at a social function when some one remarked to him, "There are the three Van Alen girls."

"Are they unmarried?" asked the divine.

"Yes, but it seems odd when one considers that they have good looks, wealth and position. It certainly is strange they don't go off."

"I quite agree with you," said the minister. "All three use enough powder."—Lippincott's.

Mole Superstitions.

According to tradition, if you have a mole on your chin you may expect to be wealthy, while if you have it under your arm it promises you wealth and honor as well. A mole on the ankle indicates courage. On the left temple a mole indicates that you will find friends among the great ones of the earth, but if it be placed on the right temple it warns you of coming distress. A mole on a man's knee means that he may expect to marry a rich woman. A mole on the neck promises wealth. If you have a mole on your nose you are going to be a great traveler. A mole on the throat indicates health and wealth.

One Way to Cure a Toothache.

There are some old superstitions still alive in England as a cure for toothache. Mr. E. A. Rawlence told the Dorset Antiquarian Field club at Dorchester recently a Dorset farmer two or three years ago recommended a friend to put his arms round a young oak tree, mark the place where his fingers met and there make a slit in the bark; then with his left hand he was to pull some hair from behind his right ear and put it in the slit in the bark.—London Globe.

Some Breaches of Promise

By M. QUAD

Copyright, 1914, by Associated Literary Press.

Hiram Spooner was the homeliest baby ever born in the state of Ohio.

When Hiram was ten years old he was the homeliest boy in any two states in this Union. At twenty-one he had the face of a baboon.

One day, after looking at him a long time, his father said to him:

"Hiram, what in thunder is going to become of you anyhow?"

"I'm thinking it over," was the reply.

After thinking things over for awhile and having a very serious talk with a fruit tree agent Hiram announced one Monday morning that he had mapped out a career for himself, and half an hour later he drove away from the farm with a hired horse and buggy.

Within a radius of ten miles were twenty-three widows. Fifteen had been made such on one and the same day by the falling of a highway bridge. Not one of the women was poor, while some had bank accounts. All had seen Hiram Spooner several times over. Hiram had prepared a list, and he began his calls according to card system. As he drove up to a house he wriggled out of his buggy and wriggled along to the door, and when it was opened to him and he was invited in he began:

"Widow Blank, I am trying to do something to make a living. Did you know that you can grow two crops of the Oklahoma cucumber?"

"No, I never heard of it."

"I sent and got some of the seeds. Here they are. I shall charge you but little more than for the ordinary seeds, and you can have two crops in place of one."

"Well, I will buy them to help you along."

"That is kind of you. I need money, but there are times when I fairly long for a word of sympathy."

"I know you must, and for years I have wanted to tell you how very, very sorry I was and am. There is no one in the world I pity as I do you. If you have anything else to sell bring it here."

Hiram had tears in his eyes as he left the house, but before climbing into his buggy he took out his memorandum book and made some entries under the proper date.

It took over thirty days for him to get around to the last widow, but he finished his business in good shape. Half a dozen times his father had demanded:

"See here, boy, what kind of a game are you up to with the widows?"

"I'm picking out the best of the lot to propose to," was always the reply.

Soon as the last widow had bought some Oklahoma cucumber seeds to help Hiram Spooner along with his laudable ambitions and to raise a double crop of cucumber pickles the first one called:

"It stated that his heart and head had been touched by her kind words and, being sure in his own mind that it was a case of love at first sight with both of them, he had decided to accept her generous offer and hoped that it would be no sacrifice on her part. At what date should the wedding take place? Was the betrothal to be announced at once or later on? What minister did she prefer? How many and what guests should be invited?"

The widow read the note over the first time with wonder. The second time she was amazed, and the third she gasped out:

"Why, what can the crazy donkey mean?"

The widow sat down and wrote a note repudiating everything, even to the Oklahoma cucumber seeds. These seeds had been fed to the chickens just before the note was written.

Hiram came back with a written statement that she had deceived him and crushed his young and crippled heart. She had led him to believe that she loved him, and in return he had given her all his affections. To be thrown down now would be a blow that he could never get over. No money could ever heal his feelings, but she must requite him to an extent as a moral lesson to her not to fool with the hearts of the male sex.

The negotiations consumed two weeks, and the widow paid over to Hiram $300 rather than go into court. His little game was worked on every single one of the widows. From some he got as much as $500 and from others only a single hundred.

Not until the very last did Hiram's father understand what he had been up to, and then he indignantly exclaimed:

"I order to turn you outdoors or set the law on you."

"But you won't. It has long pained me to see you working away on this stony old farm and not coming out $25 a year ahead of the game."

"And I've had a useless son to support!" growled the father.

"But useless no longer. I hereby offer you $1,500 for the old farm, and you can be my hired man at $30 a month and board for the next ten years."

But even the homeliest man in the country may not hold his luck. An old maid whom Hiram had bowed to and smiled at as he drove around the country brought a breach of promise suit against him and took away from him every cent he had extorted from the widows.

"The durned bump!" exclaimed the father. "Didn't he know that every ruler ever made is bound to work both ways sometimes and throw a feller over the fence!"

The Scrap Book

No Friend of the Militants.

London has been having a good laugh over a recent incident in which Mrs. Asquith, wife of the premier, figured, and the story has been enjoyed all the more since for once the lady's ready wit failed her in an emergency and she remained dazed and mute instead of hurling forth one of her bright retorts.

Mrs. Asquith, so it is stated, was returning the other day from a shopping expedition and hailed a taxi. Getting in, she gave the order—"Ten Downing street."

But the taxi driver had taken woman fares to the premier's office in Downing street before, and there had been brickbats for the windows and trouble for him.

So instead of lowering the flag he came down from his seat, opened the door and remarked brusquely: "Come out of it. Downing street? Not if I know it! You'll have to get some one else for this little job, young woman!"

And out she went.

"At Random Sent."

I shot an arrow from the bow. I had no target handy, so I fired into the air, and, oh, I hit a timid passing bird!

That arrow was an idle word of censure and was overheard by one for whom 'twas never meant.

Ah, me, the cruel shaft I sent without the least unkind intent! And all the wealth of land and main Can never bring it back again.

—Cora M. W. Greenleaf.

A Gentle Reproof.

The governor of a New England state was one time fishing in the streams of the Adirondacks when he encountered a handsome setter dog, which insisted on following him from camp to camp.

Later he met a party of men working upstream with a native guide. The guide immediately recognized his dog.

"Ha, trying to steal my dog, you?" he shouted at the governor.

"I'll have you in jail for this. There's a law in the woods you have in the city."

The governor endeavored to explain that he was an unwilling companion to the dog, which had persisted in following him, but to little or no effect, until he had a crisp greenback to aid him in his arguments.

"It's queer what strange things happen to a man up here," he remarked to the stage driver who later carried him away from the woods. "That is the first time I was ever accused of stealing a dog."

"Yes, sir," replied the driver sympathetically. Then, after a moment's thoughtful silence, he continued, "As for me, sir, I have never been accused of stealing anything."—Lippincott's.

A Soldier's Joke.

When a certain distinguished general was in old days military secretary at Malta he was sent during a government house function to ask a young lady to repeat a skirt dance which had met with much appreciation. The fair dancer, who was somewhat affected, protested that she positively couldn't and that if she did she would be completely "blown."

The officer returned to the governor looking rather sheepish, and hesitated as if there was something he did not like to say. "Well?" asked the great man.

"She won't," replied the other. "Won't! Why?" "I don't know," was the reply, "but she said she'd be blown if she would!"

Gallant Service.

Colonel James Hamilton Lewis went over to a hotel near the capitol for some luncheon. He finished, walked to the door of the cafe and stood looking out into the lobby, occupying the place usually held by the head waiter.

A very pretty woman came up, mistook the senator for the head waiter and asked: "May I have that table over there?"

"Certainly, madam," the gallant colonel replied. "It will give me great pleasure to escort you thither."

He led her to the table, pulled out her chair and seated her. She picked up the bill of fare, glanced at it and then said to Lewis: "What do you recommend today?"

"Madam," Lewis replied with one of his famous bows, "if I were not married I should unhesitatingly recommend myself."—Saturday Evening Post.

For the Children

Although New York city is the second greatest in the world, there are large sections within its confines where houses are few and woodlands. Such a place is the town of Woodside, in Queens borough, on Long Island. On the outskirts of this little town there has been for some time an animal training farm. Wild beasts from all over the world are received there and tamed. It is said by some who have been permitted to visit this institution that harsh methods are in vogue. For instance, a newly imported lion is beaten with iron bars and cowed by punishment. Happily this is not the method of the little girl here pictured. She believes and practices the idea of gentle ways. She is a daughter of one of the wild beast trainers and has been brought up among animals. Her way of training is by love. The two little kids are examples of her kindly ways with animals. They know she is their friend.

A Diamond Explosion.

Sounds rather astounding, does it not?

And yet, according to an expert who gave a lecture before the Royal Society of Arts, London, diamonds are quite likely to explode.

He quoted various instances of diamonds exploding on being taken from the diamond fields and said that such an explosion might occur years after being released from the mines. So don't aggravate your diamonds!

Diamonds are supposed to be formed through the fusion of carbon at great temperatures under such pressure as ground. The expert remarked that by the time the precious stones had worked their way up near the surface through volcanic disturbances and within grasp of the miner the great pressure was gone.

A Canal Underground.

The most remarkable canal in the world is the one between Worsey and St. Helen's, in the north of England.

It is sixteen miles long and underground from one end to the other. Throughout Lancashire the coal mines are extensive, and many years ago the Duke of Bridgewater's managers thought they could save money by transporting the coal underground instead of on the surface. So the canal was constructed and the mines were connected and drained at the same time.

Ordinary canal boats are used, but men furnish the power. On the roof of the tunnel arch are cross pieces, and the men who do the work of propelling the craft lie on the coal on their backs and push with their feet against these crossbars on the roof.

Famous Persons.

If your friends come to spend an afternoon or evening with you play the game of "Famous Persons."

Prepare in advance photographs of famous people, labeled with names that do not belong to them. Then hand these about among the company for correction. What seems easy at first will be difficult and will tax the memory of your "party."

You can buy penny pictures of famous statesmen, painters, musicians and authors.

The one naming the most pictures correctly should get a prettily framed picture for a prize.

A Famous Bell.

One of the most interesting and perhaps finest toned bells to be found in Europe is the "Kaiserlocke," which is hung in Cologne cathedral. It is comparatively small as regards size, being only a little over twenty-seven tons in weight. The curious fact about the "Kaiserlocke," however, is that it became so badly cracked in 1875 that it had to be recast, and for this purpose the metal of a number of French cannons captured during the war of 1870-1 were used.

This expedition will occupy all of a couple of years, and Mr. Pedrick expects to obtain much interesting material for a book which he will write on his return. The Eden Confectionery Parlors will in the absence of Mr. Pedrick be under the able management of William Hicks, who has had charge of the soda fountain for several years. We extend our hearty good wishes for the success of this expedition and await with interest Mr. Pedrick's forthcoming book.

In another paragraph the Echo announced that its readers would be favored with weekly letters from Simon Pedrick giving an interesting account of his trip to the north country.

If the neighbors of Simon Pedrick were amazed at his action his mother was indignant to indignation by the startling scheme.

"You shan't stir a step, Simon," she fumed vainly. "I forbid it."

PUZZLING MUD LUMPS.

Clay Islands That Rise and Fall in the Mississippi River.

Within a mile or two of each of the mouths of the Mississippi the territory is characterized by large swellings or upheavals of tough bluish gray clay, to which has been applied the name of "mud lumps." Many of these mud lumps rise just off shore and form islands having a surface extent of an acre or more and a height of five or ten feet, but some do not reach the water surface.

These mud lumps, in addition to being of importance because of their effects on the channels of the Mississippi river, are also of considerable purely scientific interest, for their development is not included in the usual conception of delta growth, and although several theories have been advanced, their cause must still be regarded as uncertain. The mud lumps are commonly twenty to thirty rods broad and stand twenty or thirty feet above the adjacent bottom. Their growth occupies from a few hours to several years and is usually irregular.

Generally a mud lump rises in a few weeks or months to a height of four or five feet above the surface of the water. Then it remains quiet and is beaten down by the waves in the course of a few years. Many of them subside, however, and some disappear overnight. Those that rise slowly are considerably worn before they stop growing, while those that rise more rapidly and in protected places are capped by laminated silt having a maximum thickness of ten feet.

Among the most conspicuous and impressive features of the mud lumps are the mud springs that are active on many if not all of them. The discharge from these springs consists of salt, watery mud and gas. It is considered by some scientists that the mud lumps are produced by a gentle seaward flow of layers of semifluid clay under the land and the shallow water near the end of the passes. The mud lumps appear to be the product of flow, because in no other places have such thick bodies of clay been found.—Argonaut.

Quick Curtain.

Little Willie was left alone with sister's beau.

"Mr. Chumpley," he presently said, "what is a popinjay?"

Sister's beau wrinkled his forehead.

"Wh-why, a popinjay is a—a vain bird."

"Are y— a bird, Mr. Chumpley?"

"Certainly not."

"That's a popinjay, and pa said there was no doubt about your bein' a jay, an' sister said there was small hopes of your poppin', an' now you say you ain't a bird at all. That's funny."

And just then sister came into the room.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Undischarged.

The pastor of a certain fashionable church in New York never neglects an opportunity to express disapproval of the extravagant use of cosmetics by the members of his congregation.

On one occasion he was present at a social function when some one remarked to him, "There are the three Van Alten girls."

"Are they unmarried?" asked the divine.

"Yes, but it seems odd when one considers that they have good looks, wealth and position. It certainly is strange they don't go off."

"I quite agree with you," said the minister. "All three use enough powder."—Lippincott's.

Mole Superstitions.

According to tradition, if you have a mole on your chin you may expect to be wealthy, while if you have it under your arm it promises you wealth and honor as well. A mole on the ankle indicates courage.

On the left temple a mole indicates that you will find friends among the great ones of the earth, but if it be placed on the right temple it warns you of coming distress. A mole on a man's knee means that he may expect to marry a rich woman. A mole on the neck promises wealth. If you have a mole on your nose you are going to be a great traveler. A mole on the throat indicates health and wealth.

One Way to Cure a Toothache.

There are some old superstitions still alive in England as a cure for toothache. Mr. E. A. Rawlence told the Dorset Antiquarian Field club at Dorchester recently a Dorset farmer two or three years ago recommended a friend to put his arms round a young oak tree, mark the place where his fingers met and there make a slit in the bark; then with his left hand he was to pull some hair from behind his right ear and put it in the slit in the bark.—London Globe.

Some Breaches of Promise

By M. QUAD

Copyright, 1914, by Associated Literary Press.

Hiram Spooner was the homeliest baby ever born in the state of Ohio.

When Hiram was ten years old he was the homeliest boy in any two states in this Union. At twenty-one he had the face of a baboon.

One day, after looking at him a long time, his father said to him: "Hiram, what in thunder is going to become of you anyhow?"

"I'm thinking it over," was the reply.

After thinking things over for awhile and having a very serious talk with a fruit tree agent Hiram announced one Monday morning that he had mapped out a career for himself, and half an hour later he drove away from the farm with a hired horse and buggy.

Within a radius of ten miles were twenty-three widows. Fifteen had been made such on one and the same day by the falling of a highway bridge. Not one of the women was poor, while some had bank accounts. All had seen Hiram Spooner several times over. Hiram had prepared a list, and he began his calls according to card system. As he drove up to a house he wriggled along to the door, and when it was opened to him and he was invited in he began:

"Widow Blank, I am trying to do something to make a living. Did you know that you can grow two crops of the Oklahoma cucumber?"

"No, I never heard of it."

"I sent and got some of the seeds. Here they are. I shall charge you but little more than for the ordinary seeds, and you can have two crops in place of one."

"Well, I will buy them to help you along."

"That is kind of you. I need money, but there are times when I fairly long for a word of sympathy."

"I know you must, and for years I have wanted to tell you how very, very sorry I was and am. There is no one in the world I pity as I do you. If you have anything else to sell bring it here."

Hiram had tears in his eyes as he left the house, but before climbing into his buggy he took out his memorandum book and made some entries under the proper date.

It took over thirty days for him to get around to the last widow, but he finished his business in good shape. Half a dozen times his father had demanded:

"See here, boy, what kind of a game are you up to with the widows?"

"I'm picking out the best of the lot to propose to," was always the reply.

Soon as the last widow had bought some Oklahoma cucumber seeds to help Hiram Spooner along with his laudable ambitions and to raise a double crop of cucumber pickles the first one called:

"That's just what my heart has been set on."

It touched her by kind words and, being sure in his own mind that it was a case of love at first sight with both of them, he had decided to accept her generous offer and hoped that it would be no sacrifice on her part. At what date should the wedding take place? Was the betrothal to be announced at once or later on? What minister did she prefer? How many and what guests should be invited?

The widow read the note over the first time with wonder. The second time she was amazed, and the third she gasped out:

"Why, what can the crazy donkey mean?"

The widow sat down and wrote a note repudiating everything, even to the Oklahoma cucumber seeds. These seeds had been fed to the chickens just before the note was written.

Hiram came back with a written statement that she had deceived him and crushed his young and crippled heart. She had led him to believe that she loved him, and in return he had given her all his affections. To be thrown down now would be a blow that he could never get over. No money could ever heal his feelings, but she must requite him to an extent as a moral lesson to her not to fool with the hearts of the male sex.

The negotiations consumed two weeks, and the widow paid over to Hiram $300 rather than go into court. His little game was worked on every single one of the widows. From some he got as much as $500 and from others only a single hundred.

Not until the very last did Hiram's father understand what he had been up to, and then he indignantly exclaimed:

"I order to turn you outdoors or set the law on you."

"But you won't. It has long pained me to see you working away on this stony old farm and not coming out $25 a year ahead of the game."

"And I've had a useless son to support!" growled the father.

"But useless no longer. I hereby offer you $1,500 for the old farm, and you can be my hired man at $30 a month and board for the next ten years."

But even the homeliest man in the country may not hold his luck. An old maid whom Hiram had bowed to and smiled at as he drove around the country brought a breach of promise suit against him and took away from him every cent he had extorted from the widows.

"The durned bump!" exclaimed the father. "Didn't he know that every lever ever made is bound to work both ways sometimes and throw a feller over the fence!"

The Scrap Book

No Friend of the Militants.

London has been having a good laugh over a recent incident in which Mrs. Asquith, wife of the premier, figured, and the story has been enjoyed all the more since for once the lady's ready wit failed her in an emergency and she remained dazed and mute instead of hurling forth one of her bright retorts.

Mrs. Asquith, so it is stated, was returning the other day from a shopping expedition and hailed a taxi. Getting in, she gave the order—"Ten Downing street."

But the taxi driver had taken woman fares to the premier's office in Downing street before, and there had been brickbats for the windows and trouble for him.

So instead of lowering the flag he came down from his seat, opened the door and remarked brusquely: "Come out of it. Downing street? Not if I know it! You'll have to get some one else for this little job, young woman!" And out she went.

"At Random Sent."

I shot an arrow from the bow, I had no target handy, so I fired into the air, and, oh, I hit a timid passing bird! That arrow was an idle word Of venture and was overheard By one for whom 'twas never meant. Ah, me, the cruel shaft I sent Without the least unkind intent! And all the wealth of land and main Can never bring it back again.

—Cora M. W. Greenleaf.

A Gentle Reproof.

The governor of a New England state was one time fishing in the streams of the Adirondacks when he encountered a handsome setter dog, which insisted on following him from camp to camp.

Later he met a party of men working upstream with a native guide. The guide immediately recognized his dog.

"Ha, trying to steal my dog, you?" he shouted to the governor. "I'll have you in jail for this. There's a law in the woods you have in the city."

The governor endeavored to explain that he was an unwilling companion to the dog, which had persisted in following him, but to little or no effect, until he had a crisp greenback to aid him in his arguments.

"It's queer what strange things happen to a man up here," he remarked to the stage driver who later carried him away from the woods. "That is the first time I was ever accused of stealing a dog."

"Yes, sir," replied the driver sympathetically. Then, after a moment's thoughtful silence, he continued, "As for me, sir, I have never been accused of stealing anything."—Lippincott's.

A Soldier's Joke.

When a certain distinguished general was in old days military secretary at Malta he was sent during a government house function to ask a young lady to repeat a skirt dance which had met with much appreciation. The fair dancer, who was somewhat affected, protested that she positively couldn't and that if she did she would be completely "blown." The officer returned to the governor looking rather sheepish, and hesitated as if there was something he did not like to say. "Well?" asked the great man. "She won't," replied the other. "Won't? Why?" "I don't know," was the reply, "but she said she'd be blown if she would!"

Gallant Service.

Colonel James Hamilton Lewis went over to a hotel near the capitol for some luncheon. He finished, walked to the door of the cafe and stood looking out into the lobby, occupying the place usually held by the head waiter.

A very pretty woman came up, mistook the senator for the head waiter and asked: "May I have that table over there?"

"Certainly, madam," the gallant colonel replied. "It will give me great pleasure to escort you thither."

He led her to the table, pulled out her chair and seated her. She picked up the bill of fare, glanced at it and then said to Lewis: "What do you recommend today?"

"Madam," Lewis replied with one of his famous bows, "if I were not married I should unhesitatingly recommend myself."—Saturday Evening Post.

For the Children

Although New York City is the second greatest in the world, there are large sections within its confines where houses are few and woodlands and farms make up the landscape. Such a place is the town of Woodside, in Queens borough, on Long Island. On the outskirts of this little town there has been for some time an animal training farm. Wild beasts from all over the world are received there and tamed. It is said by some who have been permitted to visit this institution that harsh methods are in vogue. For instance, a newly imported lion is beaten with iron bars and cowed by punishment. Happily this is not the method of the little girl here pictured. She believes and practices the idea of gentle ways. She is a daughter of one of the wild beast trainers and has been brought up among animals. Her way of training is by love. The two little kids are examples of her kindly ways with animals. They know she is their friend.

A Diamond Explosion.

Sounds rather astounding, does it not? And yet, according to an expert who gave a lecture before the Royal Society of Arts, London, diamonds are quite likely to explode.

He quoted various instances of diamonds exploding on being taken from the diamond fields and said that such an explosion might occur years after being released from the mines. So don't aggrate your diamonds!

Diamonds are supposed to be formed through the fusion of carbon at great pressure under such pressure as ground. The expert remarked that by the time the precious stones had worked their way up near the surface through volcanic disturbances and within grasp of the miner the great pressure was gone.

A Canal Underground.

The most remarkable canal in the world is the one between Worsley and St. Helen's, in the north of England. It is sixteen miles long and underground from one end to the other. Throughout Lancashire the coal mines are extensive, and many years ago the Duke of Bridgewater's managers thought they could save money by transporting the coal underground instead of on the surface. So the canal was constructed and the mines were connected and drained at the same time.

Ordinary canal boats are used, but men furnish the power. On the roof of the tunnel arch are cross pieces, and the men who do the work of propelling the craft lie on the coal on their backs and push with their feet against these crossbars on the roof.

Famous Persons.

If your friends come to spend an afternoon or evening with you play the game of "Famous Persons."

Prepare in advance photographs of famous people, labeled with names that do not belong to them. Then hand these about among the company for correction. What seems easy at first will be difficult and will tax the memory of your "party."

You can buy penny pictures of famous statesmen, painters, musicians and authors.

The one naming the most pictures correctly should get a pretty framed picture for a prize.

A Famous Bell.

One of the most interesting and perhaps finest toned bells to be found in Europe is the "Kaiserlocke," which is hung in Cologne cathedral. It is comparatively small as regards size, being only a little over twenty-seven tons in weight. The curious fact about the "Kaiserlocke" however, is that it became so badly cracked in 1875 that it had to be recast, and for this purpose the metal of a number of French cannons captured during the war of 1870-1 were used.

MENKE'S DAILY SPORTING LETTER

(By Frank G. Menke.)

New York, April 18.—"Jawn" McGraw, leader of the New York Giants (when not prone on the ground from a wallop "from behind") must be wearing a four leaf clover in his little booties these days, or dangling a horseshoe from his slender, Grecian neck. There seems to be no other way of explaining away the fact that it's been almost three weeks now since anybody has hit him "from behind."

But John shouldn't get too enthusiastic over the wallop-preventing powers of the clover, the horseshoe, or whatever it is he's totting around on his person. The season still is young. "Jawn's" trouble-making tongue is still in working order, and who knows but some day in the immediate future some one will repeat the performance of Messrs. Newman, Brennan, "Honest" John Kelly, "Bugs" Raymond and Dan McGann.

Somebody ought to feel sorry for "Jawn" because he's been hit "from behind" so frequently and so effectively. But we're afraid that John isn't so well loved that the sympathetic feeling will be general. But, as aforementioned, John ought to be sympathized with. Not only has he been struck "from behind" and driven to Mother Earth in a crumpled heap on sundry occasions, but he's been robbed of his cherished, and undeserved—possession; the reputation of being a scrapper.

In the years that have gone gone "Jawn" used to kid the people into believing that as a punching person even Jim Jeffries had very little on him. And the gullible public used to believe it. They thought "Jawn" had made a mistake—that he should have gone into the business of "white hoping."

And now, all of a sudden like, along comes Messrs. Newman of Houston, Texas, and Brennan once of Philadelphia, who soak "Jawn" on the map, sending "Jawn" to the ground. Does "Jawn" get it and seak back? No, he doesn't. He just lets out a shriek about being soaked from behind, waits until protecting teammates arrived, and then bravely rises back into a standing posture and calling the newspaper men to him, tells them, while he rubs his jaw, "I was soaked from behind. Had the coward swatted me when I was looking, I'd a beaten him into mince meat. But he soaked me from behind."

In conclusion, on this subject, it might be only fair to Messrs. Newman, Brennan and the others who have swung upon "Jawn" from the rear to state that they assert they didn't swat "from behind" but passed "Jawn" a tip as to what was coming just before they started the wallop, and that "Jawn" was looking directly at them when they swung. And they claim to have witnessed to back them up.

Over in France they've handed the fencing game a blow "from behind." The sportsmen there are quite busy just now shoving fencing, the sport that has come down from the middle ages, into the discard, supplanting it with boxing. Even the most ardent lovers of the duelling game in the old days have forsaken the foils and are using boxing gloves to provide them with exercise and amusement.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, April 18.—The lower price level established since the beginning of the week coupled with fresh liquidation gave the stock market a weak tone at the opening today and a number of issues sustained sharp declines. Reading was one of the most prominent features declining one point to 161 1/2. Missouri Pacific which declined six points yesterday on heavy selling from some mysterious source, began at 19 1/4 for a gain of 1/2, but at the end of twenty minutes this advance had been lost. The low point touched by this issue Friday, 18 1/2 was the first time in twenty years the issue had sold at that price. Among the other initial declines were the following: United States Common, 1/2; American Can, 1/2; Union Pacific, 1/2; Southern Pacific, 1/2; Amalgamated Copper, 1/2; Anaconda, 1/2; Chesapeake and Ohio, 1/2; Erie, 1/2; Lehigh Valley, 1/2 and Erie, 1/2. Toward the end of the first hour the pressure increased due to an increase in offerings, particularly in Steel. The curb was heavy. Americans in London were heavy on lack of British support and on selling orders cabled from New York. Weakness in Americans in London was attributed to the Mexican situation.

Hurley, April 18.—The backward condition of the weather has prevented our farmers and gardeners doing work that should be well begun by this time. In some favored places there has been plowing but for the most part but little beyond clearing up has been done. The sticky condition of the ground makes even this anything but pleasant work.

The successful spraying of trees by some of our farmers has brought about, this spring, a large amount of spraying among the different orchards. It pays to do so.

planting of lettuce and radish seed by many of our village folk who religiously follow up this custom. No matter what the weather may be, the day must see this observance.

Easter Sunday was very prettily and appropriately observed in the village church. The day and the fine weather brought out a large attendance which appreciated fully the varied services offered. The musical program was a most pleasing one and the different selections were thoroughly enjoyed. The pastor preached an appropriate sermon from the text: "Why seek ye the living among the dead?" The decorations were very prettily arranged, consisting of plants and flowers, including some handsome specimens of Easter lilies, all clustered about the pulpit.

The Ladies' Missionary Society had a very successful meeting at the home of Mrs. Ostrander on Wednesday afternoon. At the close of the meeting a delicious lunch was served. The society is in a flourishing condition and has lately taken four new members.

Mr. Bishop, who received lately an injury to his hip, is resting easily in the Kingston hospital.

J. J. Brodhead is spending the Easter time in New York city.

Fred Mason is visiting in New York city.

Miss Agnes Smith of Kingston is spending the Easter holidays with her grandmother, Mrs. Myer, on the Marlborough road.

Miss Jane Hasbrouck is visiting in High Falls.

Miss Sarah Bell Crispell, who has been ill for some weeks, is still confined to her bed. Mrs. Crispell rejoices in her 90 years and hopes to live to be 100 years old.

Mrs. Hannah Myers of Port Ewen is still with her mother, Mrs. Crispell.

The auto-bus line that has permission to run from Kingston through Hurley to Ellenville will prove a much needed convenience to Hurley people. Our great want has been a means of getting away from Kingston later than the train that now leaves at 4:35. The time table of the new line is awaited with interest to learn the opportunities that may be expected from this line.

A trip through the woods about the First Binnewater shows still many of the winter's traits so prevalent this spring. There are many patches of snow and ice and the lake itself has quite a sheet of ice covering the surface. Here and there, however, in the woods in sheltered spots harbingers of spring may be found by careful search; still these are as yet quite backward. A late visit found hepaticas, some arbutus in bud but not in blossom, a little ground pine and some traces of some spring flowers yet to come.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard E. Bush and family spent Saturday and Sunday with relatives at Kingston.

Mrs. William Markle, who has been visiting relatives in Kingston, returned home Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Goethals and family of Middletown are now occupying the home of the former's parents. Mr. Goethals has been forced to give up his position at Middletown on account of ill health.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Elliott moved from the Martin E. Markle place to their new home last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Pratt entertained Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Steen of High Falls on Sunday.

Mrs. Charles Markle and Mrs. C. Stratton visited relatives in Kingston Tuesday and Wednesday.

Why Kelly Didn't Sing

William F. Kelly, Kingston's widely known tenor singer, who had expected to sing at the Charity Ball, was unable to do so because of a severe cold. It was a real cold, not the excuse so often given by temperamental singers, that prevented Mr. Kelly from singing, a fact that it is needless to state to those who know Mr. Kelly and his reluctance to break an engagement. Indeed it was this keeping engagements and singing when he ought not to have done so because of an attack of laryngitis that put Mr. Kelly's throat in such a condition on Friday that his physician positively forbade him to sing. Mr. Kelly has offered to sing in a concert to be given later in the year for the benefit of the Sanitarium, provided other singers can be induced to give their services.

Holy Name Society Communion.

The Holy Name Society of St. Mary's Church will receive holy communion as an organization at the 8 o'clock mass tomorrow. They will meet in St. Mary's school hall at 7:30 Sunday evening. After the meeting there will be a lecture on Ireland. The Holy Name Journal, their monthly publication, will be distributed at the meeting.

Trip Through Catholic Ireland.

At 8:15 tomorrow evening in St. Mary's Hall the Rev. John J. Hickey will deliver a lecture on Catholic Ireland that will be beautifully illustrated. All the members of the Holy Name Society are expected to be present and the entire membership of the parish is wanted. No admission fee will be asked. A musical program will as well be presented.

MENKE'S DAILY SPORTING LETTER

(By Frank G. Menke.)

New York, April 18.—"Jawn" McGraw, leader of the New York Giants (when not prone on the ground from a wallop "from behind") must be wearing a four leaf clover in his little booties these days, or dangling a horseshoe from his slender, Grecian neck. There seems to be no other way of explaining away the fact that it's been almost three weeks now since anybody has hit him "from behind."

But John shouldn't get too enthusiastic over the wallop-preventing powers of the clover, the horseshoe, or whatever it is he's totting around on his person. The season still is young. "Jawn's" trouble-making tongue is still in working order, and who knows but some day in the immediate future some one will repeat the performance of Messrs. Newman, Brennan, "Honest" John Kelly, "Bugs" Raymond and Dan McGinn.

Sombody ought to feel sorry for "Jawn" because he's been hit "from behind" so frequently and so effectively. But we're afraid that John isn't so well loved that the sympathetic feeling will be general. But, as aforementioned, John ought to be sympathized with. Not only has he been struck "from behind" and driven to Mother Earth in a crumpled heap on sundry occasions, but he's been robbed of his cherished—and undeserved—possession; the reputation of being a scrapper.

In the years that have gone "Jawn" used to kid the people into believing that as a punching person even Jim Jeffries had very little on him. And the gullible public used to believe it. They thought "Jawn" had made a mistake—that he should have gone into the business of "white hoping."

And now, all of a sudden like, along comes Messrs. Newman of Houston, Texas, and Brennan once of Philadelphia, who soak "Jawn" on the map, sending "Jawn" to the ground. Does "Jawn" get it and seek back No, he doesn't. He just lets out a shriek about being soaked from behind, waits until protecting teammates arrived, and then bravely rises back into a standing posture and calling the newspaper men to him, tells them, while he rubs his jaw:

"I was soaked from behind. Had the coward swatted me when I was looking, I'd a beaten him into mince meat. But he soaked me from behind."

In conclusion, on this subject, it might be only fair to Messrs. Newman, Brennan and the others who have swung upon "Jawn" from the rear to state that they assert they didn't swat "from behind" but passed "Jawn" a tip as to what was coming just before they started the wallop, and that "Jawn" was looking directly at them when they swung. And they claim to have witnessed to back them up.

Over in France they've handed the fencing game a blow "from behind." The sportsmen there are quite busy just now shoving fencing, the sport that has come down from the middle ages into the discard, supplanting it with boxing. Even the most ardent lovers of the dueling game in the old days have forsaken the foils and are using boxing gloves to provide them with exercise and amusement.

Countdown day lost whose low descending sun. Views not a brand new damage suit begun.

The festive rain check which has been working overtime for the past few days will now kindly take a rest.

If some of the organized baseball barristers should jump to the Federal League that would be a real calamity.

The only member of the Giant squad who has not been "mentioned" as one of the trio flitting with the Feds is Julius Pickle, the rising young mascot.

We suppose that Charley Comiskey has already begun to make plans for the 1914 world series.

Connie Mack is said to be getting all wrinkled and taciturn because of the showing of the Athletics. And the commanders of the other teams are accordingly showing signs of jubilation. But he who laughs in October laughs best.

Hans Lobert has written a book about the world tour of the Giants and the White Sox. What with literature, the drama and the law, a baseball player has to have the versatility of a burglar these days in order to be a success.

Sir Thomas Lipton declares that the arrangements for the international yacht races suit him to a "T."

But Earle celebrated his most recent hurdle by defeating the Tigers.

Hist! A mystery. Jim Coffey, the Dublin Giant, announces he is going to England to fight Bombardier Wells for the championship. To the first person ascertaining the identity of this particular championship will be given a complete embossed copy of Jack Johnson's police court record.

The blacksmith chorus has already begun to charge the Federal League with being an accessory before the fact in those 11, 12 and 13 inning games which are becoming so popular on the rebel circuit.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, April 18.—The lower price level established since the beginning of the week coupled with fresh liquidation gave the stock market a weak tone at the opening today and a number of issues sustained sharp declines. Reading was one of the most prominent features declining one point to 161 1/4. Missouri Pacific which declined six points yesterday on heavy selling from some mysterious source, began at 19 1/4 for a gain of 3/4, but at the end of twenty minutes this advance had been lost. The low point touched by this issue Friday, 18 1/4 was the first time in twenty years the issue had sold at that price. Among the other initial declines were the following: United States Common, 1/4; American Can, 1/4; Union Pacific, 1/4; Southern Pacific, 1/4; Amalgamated Copper, 1/4; Anaconda, 1/4; Chesapeake and Ohio, 1/4; Erie, 1/4; Lehigh Valley, 1/4 and Erie 1/4. Toward the end of the first hour the pressure increased due to an increase in offerings, particularly in Steel. The curb was heavy. Americans in London were heavy on lack of British support and on selling orders cabled from New York. Weakness in Americans in London was attributed to the Mexican situation.

Quotations furnished by John D. Kline, Broadway and Strand, Kingston, N. Y., Tel. 93. Correspondent of C. H. Van Buren & Company, members of Consolidated Stock Exchange of New York.

planting of lettuce and radish seed by many of our village folk who religiously follow up this custom. No matter what the weather may be, the day must see this observance.

Easter Sunday was very prettily and appropriately observed in the village church. The day and the fine weather brought out a large attendance which appreciated fully the varied services offered. The musical program was a most pleasing one and the different selections were thoroughly enjoyed. The pastor preached an appropriate sermon from the text: "Why seek ye the living among the dead?" The decorations were very prettily arranged, consisting of plants and flowers, including some handsome specimens of Easter lilies, all clustered about the pulpit.

The Ladies' Missionary Society had a very successful meeting at the home of Mrs. Ostrander on Wednesday afternoon. At the close of the meeting a delicious lunch was served. The society is in a flourishing condition and has lately taken four new members.

Mr. Bishop, who received lately an injury to his hip, is resting easily in the Kingston hospital.

J. J. Broadhead is spending the Easter time in New York city.

Fred Mason is visiting in New York city.

Miss Agnes Smith of Kingston is spending the Easter holidays with her grandmother, Mrs. Myer, on the Marlborough road.

Miss Jane Hasbrouck is visiting in High Falls.

Miss Sarah Bell Crispell, who has been ill for some weeks, is still confined to her bed. Mrs. Crispell rejoices in her 90 years and hopes to live to be 100 years old.

Mrs. Hannah Myers of Port Ewen is still with her mother, Mrs. Crispell.

The auto-bus line that has permission to run from Kingston through Hurley to Ellenville will prove a much needed convenience to Hurley people. Our great want has been a means of getting away from Kingston later than the train that now leaves at 4:35. The time table of the new line is awaited with interest to learn the opportunities that may be expected from this line.

A trip through the woods about the First Binnewater shoals still many of the winter trails so prevalent this spring. There are many patches of snow and ice and the lake itself has quite a sheet of ice covering the surface. Here and there, however, in the woods in sheltered spots harbinger of spring may be found by careful search; still these are as yet quite backward. A late visit found hepaticas, some arbutus in bud but not in blossom, a little ground pine and some traces of some spring flowers yet to come.

and son are visiting Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Whitaker.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard E. Bush and family spent Saturday and Sunday with relatives at Kingston.

Mrs. William Markle, who has been visiting relatives in Kingston, returned home Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Goetehins and family of Middletown are now occupying the home of the former's parents. Mr. Goetehins has been forced to give up his position at Middletown on account of ill health.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Elliott moved from the Martin E. Markle place to their new home last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Pratt entertained Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Steen of High Falls on Sunday.

Mrs. Charles Markle and Mrs. C. Stratton visited relatives in Kingston Tuesday and Wednesday.

Why Kelly Didn't Sing

William F. Kelly, Kingston's widely known tenor singer, who had expected to sing at the Charity Ball, was unable to do so because of a severe cold. It was a real cold, not the excuse so often given by temperamental singers, that prevented Mr. Kelly from singing, a fact that it is needless to state to those who know Mr. Kelly and his reluctance to break an engagement. Indeed it was this

SOCIETY NOTES.

The wedding of Miss Lizette Dinege and Burdette Minard of Plattekill will take place on Wednesday at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Dinege, in Clintondale.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Winter have returned from their wedding journey and are stopping for a short time at The Eagle, while their new home on Green street is being made ready for them.

Hamilton-Roberts.

Miss Julia Roberts, formerly postmistress at Beechford, and George Hamilton, Jr., of Claryville were married on Monday, April 6, at Liberty, Sullivan county.

Mrs. Elizabeth Montgomery entertained the members of Colonial City Lodge at her home, 196 Foxhall avenue, Wednesday afternoon. The guests enjoyed lunch. Refreshments were served by the hostess. The affair was an unusually enjoyable one.

Mrs. Granville Whitaker was the hostess at a delightful 500 party at her home, 103 Wall street, Friday afternoon. Mrs. Harry LeFever, Mrs. W. Norman Conner and Mrs. Charles Lord were the winners of prizes. Covers were spread for 24 and a delicious luncheon was served.

Miss Viola Thompson delightedly entertained a few of her friends Tuesday evening at her home on Clinton avenue. Those present were Miss Ruth Tooker of Edenville, Miss Florence Black of Jersey City, and the Misses Ruth Wheeler, Alice Hicks, Evelyn Delamater, Lillian Whitaker, Carrie Robbins, Jennie Eltinge and Freida Menzel.

Miss Davis of No. 42 Teller street entertained her pupils at a musical Friday afternoon at which Miss Florence Barton played "Shower of Roses"; Margaret Stewart, "Virginia Polka"; Mildred Stewart, "The Hesitation Waltz"; Louis Laugham, "A Robin's Return"; May Laugham, "Vacation Thought Reverie"; the Misses May and Marie Laugham, a duet, followed by a duet by the Misses Mildred and Margaret Stewart, after which games were played and dainty refreshments were served. The pupils and friends thank Miss Davis for a very enjoyable time.

Downer-Mertes.

Miss Anna Helena Mertes, daughter of the late Nicholas and Mary Mertes, and John Alan Downer were married in Milton on Sunday. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. W. S. Prunty. The bride wore white lace and carried white roses. Her only attendant was Miss Loretta Spratt, who wore yellow crepe de chine over yellow messaline and carried yellow daffodils. The best man was Melvina Downer of Long Island. Joseph and Matthew McCourt of Marlborough and Joseph E. Spratt and Nicholas Mertes were ushers.

Tucker-Weed.

Miss Mazie F. Weed, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Weed, and Robert J. Tucker of New York, were married in St. Mary's Church in Marlborough on Sunday afternoon by the Rev. James F. Hanley. The bride wore a white broadcloth suit with hat to match and carried white carnations. She was attended by her cousin, Miss Mae Weed, of New York, and John Tucker, a brother of the groom, acted as best man. The ushers were P. Manion, D. J. Hannigan, Edward McGowan and James O'Connor. The wedding music was rendered by Miss Marian Kennedy. The happy couple will reside in New York, where the groom is sergeant in the police department.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Albert E. Rose on Pine street was the scene on Friday evening of a delightful gathering of young people, the happy occasion being the birthday party of Miss Ethel Rose. The guests were the Misses Marion Turk, Idella Hyde, Margaret Herbert, Susan Cockburn, Maude Wesley, Mildred Rose, Helen Gorman Marie Gorman and Gertrude Conlin; Harry Connelly, Henry Wesley, Loughran Smith, Howland Kinkade, Harold Blanshan, George Partridge, Ferris Williams, Edwin Koch, Roy Winchell and Randall Rose. During the evening games and dancing were enjoyed. Delicious refreshments were served. The decorations being pink carnations. Of course there was a lovely birthday cake with fifteen pink candles all ablaze. The charming young hostess was the recipient of a number of pretty remembrances from her friends.

Ford Hummel, violinist, who will give a recital on Tuesday evening, April 28, has received many subscriptions for tickets to the recital. Mr. Hummel will be assisted by Charles Gilfert Spross of New York, pianist, and also by Miss Bertha Kinzel, soprano. Miss Kinzel comes very highly recommended having sung at the May festival in Ithaca and Albany, also in the musical festivals at York, Pa., under the leadership of Dr. Arthur Mees, former conductor of the Kingston Philharmonic Society. The New York critics consider Miss Kinzel a singer of high artistic ability and charming personality and the Ithaca Press compliments her highly. She has sung with the Boston Symphony Orchestra, and it is said that she possesses a voice of real purity sweetness and loveliness of tone, combined with a truly artistic technique and charming personality. Mr. Hummel would in view of the expenses connected with giving such a recital appreciate if those persons who have subscribed for tickets would make payment for the same at an early period. The concert will be held in the First Presbyterian Church on the evening of Tuesday, April 28th.

Charity Ball.

A great, great many people thoroughly enjoyed the delightful Charity Ball Friday evening at the armory and for another entire year, many others will be tenderly cared for and restored to health in the free ward of the Benedictine Sanitarium as the result of the dance. A brilliant picture greeted the guests as they entered the armory, for it was gaily decorated with American flags and festoons of purple and white streamers, long lines of flags of all nations (typifying the unlimited humanity of the sanitarium's care) adorning the sides of the great hall. The orchestra, under the baton of Conductor George Muller, was stationed at the further end of the building on a raised platform surrounded with palms and decorated with fine American flags. Nearby in a cool and dark green booth, from which radiated a weird red light, were found the Gypsy queen, Miss Lena Johnson, and her princess, whose fortune telling gifts were found to be thrillingly remarkable, and whose Gypsy garb was most becoming. The lemonade booth, in charge of Mrs. Frank Shaw, was made as attractive as appearance with its vases of Killarney roses and was popular to all who were dancing. The cigar and flower booth, Miss Anne Heaney, chairman, was especially pretty this year, with its decorations of American flags and gay colored tiny electric lights. The supper room which was enclosed with a low railing was also very attractive in both appearance and in the excellence of the refreshments served. Mrs. James Dwyer being the chairman of the supper committee. Mrs. N. D. J. Murphy was chairman of the ticket Miss Cummings of the press committee, and Mrs. James Howley of the doorkeeper. Andrew J. Cook acting as floor manager.

On their arrival the majority of the guests paid their respects to and complimented the reception committee on the delightful event. The ladies who received were Dr. Mary Gage Day, chairman of the ball, gowned in a white lace robe over white silk with crystal trimmings; Mrs. E. H. Tindale, gowned in a black crepe de chine embroidered robe; Miss McGill, wearing a gown of white satin with black lace over robe; Mrs. Frank L. Moscher, gowned in white lace over silk with old rose scarf; Mrs. John H. Schreiber, in a creation of pale lavender crepe chiffon trimmed with lace; Mrs. Andrew J. Cook, gowned in apricot crepe with lace and touches of pale blue satin; Mrs. N. D. J. Murphy, costumed in old rose brocade with touches of black; Mrs. E. D. Tremper, in a gown of ivory crepe trimmed with lace and tiny rose buds; Miss Rice in a robe of pale pink satin with lace over robe and crystal trimmings; Mrs. Mark O'Meara in robe of pale green brocade with lace and crystal trimmings; Miss Hussey gowned in old blue crepe de chine and white lace; Mrs. James Howley wearing white lace over silk, with fringe trimmings; Miss Kate Cummings in a gown of black crepe trimmed with dutch lace. A very attractive reception room had been fitted up with mission furnishings and decorated with palms, making a fine background to the handsome costumes of the ladies.

During the early part of the evening the orchestra gave a fine promenade concert that was thoroughly appreciated and enjoyed by all present. Just as fine was the music for dancing according to the expert dancers. The floor of the big drill shed was too filled with dancers to admit of any extreme forms of our present day dances, but they were all in evidence in a modified form, while many enjoyed the older but always graceful waltz and two-step. One of the delightful features of the ball was the fact that it numbered among its guests, boys and girls, young men and women, older men and women from every social circle of the city, and all found equal enjoyment in the evening's pleasures. It is yet too early to state whether the receipts of the ball will be, but Dr. Day was confident that the charity ward of the Benedictine Sanitarium would be about as well provided for this year as in former years.

ODDS AND ENDS.

The Jolly Four will hold a dance in Washington Hall this evening.

E. E. Becker, real estate broker of Wall street, sold the Van Gasebeck property of 13 Wiltwyck avenue, to Cora N. Couse.

The Ulster Academy baseball team went to Poughkeepsie this afternoon where they played the team of Eastman College at Riverview Park.

Herman Rafalowsky, formerly with A. B. Netburn, has leased the store at No. 524 Broadway and after May 1 will conduct a cleaning, pressing and tailoring establishment there.

The dime social given by the Queen Esther Circle of Trinity M. E. Church at the home of Miss Eva Canfield, No. 322 Hasbrouck avenue on Wednesday evening was a financial success and will be repeated by request on Friday evening, April 24, at 8 o'clock at Trinity M. E. Church.

WORKING IN A POULTRY YARD

Overfeeding, Overcrowding and Lack of Fresh Air Cause Much Loss—Self-Supplies Stock.

(By PROF. A. S. ALEXANDER.) Be careful in handling fowls, particularly ducks and geese. Ducks have very weak joints and it always injures them more or less to catch them by the legs.

Overfeeding, overcrowding and lack of ventilation cause much loss among amateur poultry keepers. A large percent of the chicks die and those that survive are runty and undersized.

Forgetting to provide grit causes indigestion and after a while it turns to cholera.

Fall is the best time of year to purchase geese for next year's breeding. Geese do not mate as readily as other fowls and it is therefore advisable to procure them several months before the laying season arrives. If possible, buy stock that is at least one year old and mated.

As a rule one should engage the stock sometime in the summer. Have the birds shipped after the weather gets cold. This gives the birds time to get accustomed to their surroundings.

Send all surplus poultry to market as soon as the fowls are in proper condition.

Unless one understands the process of forcing, it is seldom wise to wait for prices to go up.

Cull out the backward looking pullets, keeping only the best and most prominent for egg production.

Even in cold weather be vigilant and use the whitewash pall and brush at least once a week. The mites are busy.

A Chicken House Easily and Cheaply Constructed—Windows Are Well Arranged for Ventilation.

taking the life from the bodies of our best layers and a house-infested hen will not lay.

Some people make the mistake of selling all the good birds and retaining the poor ones.

Stop up cracks in walls and doors and do not allow drafts to blow in on the roosts. Top ventilation is the best, for foul air rises and if there is an outlet it will escape.

The ventilator should be opposite the end where the roosts are.

When the snow comes there should be paths shoveled down to the ground for the fowls to walk without getting into the drifts.

Give warm water twice a day and empty the water fountains every night before they freeze.

Potato and turnip peelings boiled and mixed with the morning feed are excellent for laying hens.

Sweep up the hayseed and spread on the floor where the hens take their sun baths and let them scratch for the oats, wheat, buckwheat and corn sprinkled there. It will make them busy and warm and make the egg basket heavier, and the old hens will not grow so far. Regularity is an essential in the feeding of fowls.

Cold water tastes good in winter; just remember that with the chickens, and note how they will leave the best food and crowd around the fountain. Skim milk has a high value in egg production. Don't waste a bit.

Fortunate are they who grow their own feed. Much of the imported ground meal or bran is poor stuff. When you get your own oats and corn ground you know you are not feeding sawdust. If you have screenings feed them and count yourself just that much ahead. But it is rarely economy to buy them as much of the weed seed is worthless and even the grain is so imperfectly developed as to furnish little nutrition.

If the hens do not eat with a relish something is wrong. It is up to you to find out what, and that in short order.

The chick once stunted never fully recovers.

Weed out the culls even if they must be sold at what may seem to be a sacrifice, and by thus getting rid of all but the best avoid having culls the next year.

Let the turkeys have some range, even when fattening. Feed liberally all the grain they will eat three times a day, and they will lose less flesh in the little exercise than they would while chafing under confinement.

Never leave a broken egg about the poultry house. Not only will it induce the egg-eating habit, but it is a breeder of lice.

Getting Fertile Eggs.

An old hen is not so apt to lay good fertile eggs as one that is a yearling.

Safe Offer.

"Your Scotch friend asked you to have a cigar, but I notice he didn't offer me one."

"Ah, you see he knows I don't smoke."—London Tatler.

LITTLE FIELDERS ARE FAST

Game Is Full of Examples of Players Who Are Short in Stature But Long on Ability.

Big men have generally had the call in baseball, because of the idea that the fellow with a big frame usually has more strength behind his efforts. Such a theory may hold good in regard to pitchers, most of whom are dependent to a certain extent on their speed for success, yet the game is full of examples of players in other positions who have been short in stature but long on ability.

Among the present day midget stars may be mentioned Maranville and Evers, who will be working side by side this summer at Boston. Tinker, Evers' old side kick at Chicago, too, was a small man, while Fred Malsb of the Highlanders and Eddie Foster of Griffith's Nationals, are in the featherweight class. Miller Huggins, the Cardinals' chief, Charlie O'Leary, the Detroit shortstop, and Eddie Collins, Mack's star, are small players,

After this had gone on for several days and the man's boasts had become insufferable Judge William Goffe and Edward Whalley, the famous English political refugees, disguised themselves in rustic costume and appeared before the alleged master. Goffe held in one hand a cheese wrapped in a napkin, which he used for a shield, and carried a mop which he had soaked in muddy water as he passed a puddle.

Thus equipped, the judge mounted the stage. The fencer asked him what business he had there and ordered him to begone. The judge stood his ground. Then the gladiator made a pass at him with his sword to drive him off. The judge received the sword in his cheese and held it there till he had drawn the mop over the professor's face and smeared him with mud. Another plunge by the enraged maitre d'armes resulted similarly, this time the judge poking the mop into his eyes. This operation was repeated a third time.

Then the maddened fencing master dropped his ordinary sword and grabbed up a huge broadsword. Thereupon the judge said:

"Stop, sir! Hitherto, you see, I have only played with you and not attempted to do you harm, but if you come at me now with the broadsword know that I will certainly take your life!"

The master was impressed by the firmness with which the judge spoke, for he dropped the point of his weapon and exclaimed: "Who can you be? You must be either Goffe, Whalley or the devil, for there was no other man in England that could beat me!"—Boston Post.

Kept Them All on Edge.

One of the favorite devices of Lord Nelson when ships were cruising in company was to signal to a given craft that Lieutenant Smith or Staff Engineer Brown or Captain of Marines Jones was to take charge, on the assumption that all his superior officers on board had been put out of action. The author of "Trafalgar Refought" says that the result was very good, for no one knew when he might be called upon to take command, and every one therefore made a point of trying to make himself fit to carry out the duty should it ever be assigned to him.

Mathematics at Oxford.

There is an interesting story which shows the disposition of Oxford toward mathematics. A venerable don who had bought half a dozen books at 3s. 6d. each received the bookseller to give him a piece of paper for the purpose of arriving at the amount. He then wrote down 3s. 6d. six times, one under the other, and was slowly adding them up when the shopman ventured to point out the shorter method of multiplying one 3s. 6d. by 6. "Dear me!" exclaimed the don. "Really, that is most ingenious, most ingenious."—London Globe.

A Regiment of Giants.

Frederick the Great originated the Prussian guards. His ambition was to form a royal bodyguard of giants. Every country was ransacked by his agents to supply recruits, and no head that towered above the crowd, even in the bazaars of Aleppo or Cairo, could escape the clutches of the Prussian king. The most extravagant sums were offered to men of exceptional inches, and an Irishman more than seven feet high, who was picked up by the Prussian ambassador in London, received a bounty of £1,300.—London Mail.

Papyrus.

The papyrus of ancient times was made from the papyrus plant. The interior of the stalk of the plant after the rind had been removed was cut into thin strips in the direction of their length, and, these being laid on a flat surface in succession, similar slices were placed over them at right angles, and their surfaces being cemented together by a sort of glue and subjected to the proper degree of pressure and well dried, the papyrus was complete.

He Balked.

"Now that you have agreed to marry me, dearest, I presume I had better ask your father's consent."

"You may if you like, but it isn't at all necessary. I am in the habit of doing exactly as I please."

"Oh, in that case perhaps I'd better consult your father about the advisability of not marrying you then."—Detroit Free Press.

So far, no historian has denied that Dewey was at Manila.

It is never too late to mend, but it is just as well if you don't have to.

Lots of people who aren't very sharp nevertheless have their good points.

Has anybody kept account of the days on which the Panama canal is to be opened?

Life seems to be a game of hide and seek between the right opportunity and the right man.

It is well to have public officials liable, but it is a whole lot better to have them reliable.

One good thing about the income tax is that actors have ceased boasting about their big salaries.

One reason so many men are unlucky is that they never go to work and stay there.

Say, Are YOU Opposed To--

INTEMPERANCE
IMPURITY
GAMBLING, ETC.

Yes? Then, why not show it by sending a check to the New York Civic League, 61 State street, Albany, N. Y., and cheer them up in their heroic, self-sacrificing battles there for decent laws in the interest of sane, much-needed moral reforms and good government? The Civic League would rather have your check just now for $10 (more or less) than your good wishes for a million. The trouble is that the forces of evil have the million and too often the Civic League gets only good wishes from good people who ought to give cash as well as compliments, who ought to play as well as pray for it.

The Civic League is the great organization of the state at Albany representing the moral forces there for good legislation and fighting bad laws. It is organized and incorporated under the laws of the state and has a strong board of directors and trustees, well known business and professional men of the state. Canon William Sheafe Chase of Brooklyn is the president, Rev. O. R. Miller is the superintendent and active leader. He is also the editor of its paper, The Reform Bulletin, published weekly (not weakly), which has 35,000 subscribers. Every pastor gets it. The Civic League has a large office in Albany and expends over $20,000 yearly, but really it needs twice that amount.

The tremendous expense of fighting bad bills and battling for good bills the past year (among the good bills were the Anti Red Light Injunction and the anti-drug, cocaine, etc., bills) brings the Civic League near the close of its financial year with over $2,000 deficit. Surely the Christian people are not going to let this depressing deficit remain very long on such a worthy organization!

Why not send the Civic, quickly, "a cheer and a check," to 61 State street, Albany, or give it to the Field Secretary, Rev. Renne C. Miller, now stopping in the city at the Y. M. C. A. By the way, Mr. Miller has spoken the last two Sundays at the Y. M. C. A. and is engaged to speak there again tomorrow at 3 o'clock at the men's meeting. He has a stirring up-to-date message that every Christian man in the city ought to hear. His subject will be "Personal Evangelism, the Supreme Need of the Church." Mr. Miller is the twin brother of Rev. O. R. Miller. He is also an evangelist and singer as well as a reformer. He will sing at the Y. M. C. A. tomorrow.

BAITED THE BRAGGART.

A Fencing Master Whose Boasting Got Him in Trouble.

A fencing master appeared in Boston one winter in the seventeenth century and had erected a stage on which he strutted up and down at certain hours, defying any and all to engage in sword play with him.

After this had gone on for several days and the man's boasts had become insufferable Judge William Goffe and Edward Whalley, the famous English political refugees, disguised themselves in rustic costume and appeared before the alleged master. Goffe held in one hand a cheese wrapped in a napkin, which he used for a shield, and carried a mop which he had soaked in muddy water as he passed a puddle.

Thus equipped, the judge mounted the stage. The fencer asked him what business he had there and ordered him to begone. The judge stood his ground. Miss Julia Roberts, formerly postmistress at Beechford, and George Hamilton, Jr., of Claryville were married on Monday, April 6, at Liberty, Sullivan county.

Mrs. Elizabeth Montgomery entertained the members of Colonial City Lodge at her home, 196 Foxhall avenue, Wednesday afternoon. The guests enjoyed flitch. Refreshments were served by the hostess. The affair was an unusually enjoyable one.

Mrs. Granville Whitaker was the hostess at a delightful 500 party at her home, 103 Wall street, Friday afternoon. Mrs. Harry LeFevre, Mrs. W. Norman Conner and Mrs. Charles Lord were the winners of prizes. Covers were spread for 24 and a delicious luncheon was served.

Miss Viola Thompson delightfully entertained a few of her friends Tuesday evening at her home on Clinton avenue. Those present were Miss Ruth Tooker of Eddyville, Miss Florence Black of Jersey City, and the Misses Ruth Wheeler, Alice Hicks, Evelyn Delamater, Lillian Whitaker, Carrie Robbins, Jennie Eltinge and Freida Menzel.

Miss Davis of No. 42 Teller street entertained her pupils at a musical Friday afternoon at which Miss Florence Barton played "Shower of Roses"; Margaret Stewart, "Virginia Polka"; Mildred Stewart, "The Hesitation Waltz"; Louis Laugham, "A Robin's Return"; May Laugham, "Vacation Thought Reverie"; the Misses May and Marie Laugham, a duet, followed by a duet by the Misses Mildred and Margaret Stewart, after which games were played and dainty refreshments were served. The pupils and friends thank Miss Davis for a very enjoyable time.

Downer-Mertes.

Miss Anna Helena Mertes, daughter of the late Nicholas and Mary Mertes, and John Alan Downer were married in Milton on Sunday. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. W. S. Prunty. The bride wore white tulle and carried white carnations. She was attended by her only attendant was Miss Loretta Spratt, who wore yellow crepe de chine over yellow messaline and carried yellow daffodils. The best man was Melvira Downer of Long Island. Joseph and Matthew McCourt of Marlborough and Joseph E. Spratt and Nicholas Mertes were ushers.

Tucker-Weed.

Miss Mazie F. Weed, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Weed, and Robert J. Tucker of New York, were married in St. Mary's Church in Marlborough on Sunday afternoon by the Rev. James F. Hanley. The bride wore a white broadcloth suit with hat to match and carried white carnations. She was attended by her cousin, Miss Mae Weed, of New York, and John Tucker, a brother of the groom, acted as best man. The ushers were P. Manion, D. J. Hannigan, Edward McGowan and James O'Connor. The wedding music was rendered by Miss Marian Kennedy. The happy couple will reside in New York, where the groom is sergeant in the police department.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Albert E. Rose on Pine street was the scene on Friday evening of a delightful gathering of young people, the happy occasion being the birthday party of Miss Ethel Rose. The guests were the Misses Marion Turk, Idella Hyde, Margaret Herbert, Susan Cockburn, Maude Wesley, Mildred Rose, Helen Gorman Marie Gorman and Gertrude Conlin; Harry Connelly, Henry Wesley, Louhran Smith, Howland Kinkade, Harold Blanshan, George Partridge, Ferris Williams, Edwin Koch, Roy Winchell and Randall Rose. During the evening games and dancing were enjoyed. Delicious refreshments were served, the decorations being pink carnations. Of course there was a lovely birthday cake with fifteen pink candles all ablaze. The charming young hostess was the recipient of a number of pretty remembrances from her friends.

Ford Hummel, violinist, who will give a recital on Tuesday evening, April 28, has received many subscriptions for tickets to the recital. Mr. Hummel will be assisted by Charles Giltner Spross of New York, pianist, and also by Miss Bertha Kinzel, soprano. Miss Kinzel comes very highly recommended having sung at the May festival in Ithaca and Albany, also in the musical festivals at York, Pa., under the leadership of Dr. Arthur Mees, former conductor of the Kingston Philharmonic Society. The New York critics consider Miss Kinzel a singer of high artistic ability and charming personality and the Ithaca Press compliments her highly. She has sung with the Boston Symphony Orchestra, and it is said that she possesses a voice of real purity, sweetness and loveliness of tone, combined with a truly artistic technique and charming personality. Mr. Hummel, in view of the expenses connected with giving such a recital appreciates it greatly if those persons who have subscribed for tickets would make payment for the same at an early period. The concert will be held in the First Presbyterian Church on the evening of Tuesday, April 28th.

Charity Ball.

A great, great many people thoroughly enjoyed the delightful Charity Ball Friday evening at the armory and for another entire year, many others will be tenderly cared for and restored to health in the free ward of the Benedictine Sanitarium as the result of the dance. A brilliant picture greeted the guests as they entered the armory, for it was gaily decorated with American flags and festoons of purple and white streamers, long lines of flags of all nations (typifying the unlimited humanity of the sanitarium's care) adorning the sides of the great hall. The orchestra, under the baton of Conductor George Muller, was stationed at the further end of the building on a raised platform surrounded with palms and decorated with fine American flags. Nearby in a cool and dark green booth, from which radiated a weird light, were found the Gypsy queen, Miss Lena Johnson, and her princess, whose fortune telling gifts were found to be thrillingly remarkable, and whose Gypsy garb was most becoming. The lemonade booth, in charge of Mrs. Frank Shaw, was made as attractive in appearance with its vases of Killarney roses as it was popular to all who were dancing. The cigar and flower booth, Miss Anne Heaney, chairman, was especially pretty this year, with its decorations of American flags and gay colored tiny electric lights. The supper room which was enclosed with a low railing was also very attractive in both appearance and in the excellence of the refreshments served. Mrs. James Dwyer being the chairman of the supper committee. Mrs. N. D. J. Murphy was chairman of the ticket committee, and Mrs. James Howley of the cloak room, Andrew J. Cook acting as floor manager.

On their arrival the majority of the guests paid their respects to and complimented the reception committee on the delightful event. The ladies who received were Dr. Mary Gage Day, chairman of the ball, gowned in a white lace robe over white silk with crystal trimmings; Mrs. E. H. Tindale, gowned in a black crepe de chine embroidered robe; Miss McGill, wearing a gown of white satin with black lace overrobe; Mrs. L. Meagher, costumed in white lace over silk with old rose scarf; Mrs. John H. Seeliger, in a creation of pale lavender crepe chiffon trimmed with lace; Mrs. Andrew J. Cook, gowned in apricot crepe with lace and touches of pale blue satin; Mrs. N. D. J. Murphy, costumed in old rose brocade with touches of black; Mrs. E. D. Tremper, in a gown of ivory crepe trimmed with lace and tiny rose buds; Miss Rice in a robe of pale pink satin with lace overrobe and crystal trimmings; Mrs. Mark O'Meara in robe of pale green brocade with lace and crystal trimmings; Miss Hussey gowned in old blue crepe de chine and white lace; Mrs. James Howley wearing white lace over silk, with fringe trimmings; Miss Kate Cummins in a gown of black crepe trimmed with dutch lace. A very attractive reception room had been fitted up with mission furnishings and decorated with palms, making a fine background to the handsome costumes of the ladies.

During the early part of the evening the orchestra gave a fine promenade concert that was thoroughly appreciated and enjoyed by all present. Just as fine was the music for dancing according to the expert dancers. The floor of the big drill shed was too filled with dancers to admit of any extreme forms of our present day dances, but they were all in evidence in a modified form, while many enjoyed the older but always graceful waltz and two-step. One of the delightful features of the ball was the fact that it numbered among its guests, boys and girls, young men and women, older men and women from every social circle of the city, and all found equal enjoyment in the evening's pleasure. It is yet too early to state what the receipts of the ball will be, but Dr. Day was confident that the charity ward of the Benedictine Sanitarium would be about as well provided for this year as in former years.

WORKING IN A POULTRY YARD

Overfeeding, Overcrowding and Lack of Fresh Air Cause Much Loss —Self Surplus Stock.

(By PROF. A. S. ALEXANDER.) Be careful in handling fowls, particularly ducks and geese. Ducks have very weak joints and it always injures them more or less to catch them by the legs.

Overfeeding, overcrowding and lack of ventilation cause much loss among amateur poultry keepers. A large percent of the chicks die and those that survive are runty and undersized.

Forgetting to provide grit causes indigestion and after a while it turns to cholera.

Fall is the best time of year to purchase geese for next year's breeding. Geese do not mate as readily as other fowls and it is therefore advisable to procure them several months before the laying season arrives. If possible, buy stock that is at least one year old and mated.

As a rule one should engage the stock sometime in the summer. Have the birds shipped after the weather gets cold. This gives the birds time to get accustomed to their surroundings.

Send all surplus poultry to market as soon as the fowls are in proper condition.

Unless one understands the process of forcing, it is seldom wise to wait for prices to go up.

Cull out the backward looking pullets, keeping only the best and most prominent for egg production.

Even in cold weather be vigilant and use the whitewash pall and brush at least once a week. The mites are busy.

A Chicken House Easily and Cheaply Constructed—Windows Are Well Arranged for Ventilation.

taking the life from the bodies of our best layers and a house-infested hen will not lay.

Some people make the mistake of selling all the good birds and retaining the poor ones.

Stop up cracks in walls and doors and do not allow drafts to blow in on the roosts. Top ventilation is the best, for foul air rises and if there is an outlet it will escape.

The ventilator should be opposite the end where the roosts are. When the snow comes there should be paths shoveled down to the ground for the fowls to walk without getting into the drifts.

Give warm water twice a day and empty the water fountains every night before they freeze.

Potato and turnip peelings boiled and mixed with the morning feed are excellent for laying hens.

Sweep up the hayseed and spread on the floor where the hens take their sun baths and let them scratch for the oats, wheat, buckwheat and corn sprinkled there. It will make them busy and warm and make the egg basket heavier, and the old hens will not grow so far. Regularity is an essential in the feeding of fowls.

Cold water tastes good in winter; just remember that with the chickens, and note how they will leave the best food and crowd around the fountain. Skim milk has a high value in egg production. Don't waste a bit.

Fortunate are they who grow their own feed. Much of the imported ground meal or bran is poor stuff. When you get your own oats and corn ground you know you are not feeding sawdust. If you have screenings feed them and count yourself just that much ahead. But it is rarely economy to buy them as much of the weed seed is worthless and even the grain is so imperfectly developed as to furnish little nutrition.

If the hens do not eat with a relish something is wrong. It is up to you to find out what, and that in short order.

The chick once stunted never fully recovers. Weed out the culls even if they must be sold at what may seem to be a sacrifice, and by thus getting rid of all but the best avoid having culls the next year.

Let the turkeys have some range, even when fattening. Feed liberally all the grain they will eat three times a day, and they will lose less flesh in the little exercise than they would while chafing under confinement.

Never leave a broken egg about the poultry house. Not only will it induce the egg-eating habit, but it is a breeder of lice.

Getting Fertile Eggs. An old hen is not so apt to lay good fertile eggs as one that is a yearling.

Safe Offer. "Your Scotch friend asked you to have a cigar, but I notice he didn't offer me one."

"Ah, you see he knows I don't smoke!"—London Tatler.

LITTLE FIELDERS ARE FAST

Game Is Full of Examples of Players Who Are Short in Stature But Long on Ability.

Big men have generally had the call in baseball, because of the idea that the fellow with a big frame usually has more strength behind his efforts. Such a theory may hold good in regard to pitchers, most of whom are dependent to a certain extent on their speed for success, yet the game is full of examples of players in other positions who have been short in stature but long on ability.

Among the present day midget stars may be mentioned Maranville and Evers, who will be working side by side this summer at Boston. Tinker, Evers' old side kick at Chicago, too, was a small man, while Fred Malsel of the Highlanders and Eddie Foster of Griffith's Nationals, are in the featherweight class. Miller Huggins, the Cardinals' chief; Charlie O'Leary, the Detroit shortstop, and Eddie Collins, Mack's star, are small players.

After this had gone on for several days and the man's boasts had become insufferable Judge William Goffe and Edward Whalley, the famous English political refugees, disguised themselves in rustic costume and appeared before the alleged master. Goffe held in one hand a cheese wrapped in a napkin, which he used for a shield, and carried a mop which he had soaked in muddy water as he passed a puddle.

Thus equipped, the judge mounted the stage. The fencer rallied at him for his impudence, asked him what business he had there and ordered him to begone. The judge stood his ground. Then the gladiator made a pass at him with his sword to drive him off. The judge received the sword in his cheese and held it there till he had drawn the mop over the professor's face and smeared him with mud. Another plunge by the enraged maitre d'armes resulted similarly, this time the judge poking the mop into his eyes. This operation was repeated a third time.

Then the maddened fencing master dropped his ordinary sword and grabbed up a huge broadsword. Thereupon the judge said: "Stop, sir! Hitherto, you see, I have only played with you and not attempted to do you harm, but if you come at me now with the broadsword know that I will certainly take your life!"

The master was impressed by the firmness with which the judge spoke, for he dropped the point of his weapon and exclaimed: "Who can you be? You must be either Goffe, Whalley or the devil, for there was no other man in England that could beat me!"—Boston Post.

Kept Them All on Edge. One of the favorite devices of Lord Nelson when ships were cruising in company was to signal to a given craft that Lieutenant Smith or Staff Engineer Brown or Captain of Marines Jones was to take charge, on the assumption that all his superior officers on board had been put out of action. The author of "Trafalgar Refought" says that the result was very good, for no one knew when he might be called upon to take command, and every one therefore made a point of trying to make himself fit to carry out the duty should it ever be assigned to him.

Say, Are YOU Opposed To---

INTEMPERANCE
IMPURITY
GAMBLING, ETC.

Yes? Then, why not show it by sending a check to the New York Civic League, 61 State street, Albany, N. Y., and cheer them up in their heroic, self-sacrificing battles there for decent laws in the interest of sane, much-needed moral reforms and good government? The Civic League would rather have your check just now for $10 (more or less) than your good wishes for a million. The trouble is that the forces of evil have the million and too often the Civic League gets only good wishes from good people who ought to give cash as well as compliments, who ought to pay as well as pray for it.

The Civic League is the great organization of the state at Albany representing the moral forces there for good legislation and fighting bad laws. It is organized and incorporated under the laws of the state and has a strong board of directors and trustees, well known business and professional men of the state. Canon William Sheafe Chase of Brooklyn is the president, Rev. O. R. Miller is the superintendent and active leader. He is also the editor of its paper, The Reform Bulletin, published weekly (not weakly), which has 35,000 subscribers. Every pastor gets it. The Civic League has a large office in Albany and expends over $20,000 yearly, but really it needs twice that amount.

The tremendous expense of fighting bad bills and battling for good bills the past year (among the good bills were the Anti Red Light Injunction and the anti-drug, cocaine, etc., bills) brings the Civic League near the close of its financial year with over $2,000 deficit. Surely the Christian people are not going to let this depressing deficit remain very long on such a worthy organization!

Why not send the Civic, quickly, "a cheer and a check," to 61 State street, Albany, or give it to the Field Secretary, Rev. Renetta C. Miller, now stopping in the city at the Y. M. C. A. By the way, Mr. Miller has spoken the last two Sundays at the Y. M. C. A. and is engaged to speak there again tomorrow at 3 o'clock at the men's meeting. He has a stirring up-to-date message that every Christian man in the city ought to hear. His subject will be "Personal Evangelism, the Supreme Need of the Church." Mr. Miller is the twin brother of Rev. O. R. Miller. He is also an evangelist and singer as well as a reformer. He will sing at the Y. M. C. A. tomorrow.

BAITED THE BRAGGART.

A Fencing Master Whose Boasting Got Him in Trouble.

A fencing master appeared in Boston one winter in the seventeenth century and had erected a stage on which he strutted up and down at certain hours, defying any and all to engage in sword play with him.

After this had gone on for several days and the man's boasts had become insufferable Judge William Goffe and Edward Whalley, the famous English political refugees, disguised themselves in rustic costume and appeared before the alleged master. Goffe held in one hand a cheese wrapped in a napkin, which he used for a shield, and carried a mop which he had soaked in muddy water as he passed a puddle.

The testatrix also bequeaths the following sums: To Mary Davis, $500; to Robert B. Castree, $500; to Viola Sherman, $500; to Prudence Brown, $500; to James R. Burgett, $500; to Ella L. DeLaunier, $2,000. To the Saugerties Cemetery Association is bequeathed the sum of $1,000 in trust for the perpetual care of the burial lot of the testatrix; to the minister, elders and deacons of the Reformed Church of Saugerties, $2,000 in trust, the income to be used for the repairs to the church; to the Industrial Home of Kingston, $2,000 for the general purposes of the home, as the trustees of the home may deem best.

The balance of the estate is given to Dr. Spencer Lyman Dawes, Jessie F. Davis, Maria Carl, Mitchell Dawes, Henrietta M. Fellows, Grant M. Russell, Jeremiah Russell, Ralph Russell, and William W. Russell.

Benjamin F. Fellows and Dr. Spencer Lyman Dawes are appointed executors. The will was executed August 29, 1912, and witnessed by John L. Green and Benjamin M. Green. The value of the estate is $50,000 personal property and over $100,000 real property. Benjamin M. Green appeared for the executors.

City Sunday School Meeting.

A special meeting of the Sunday schools of the city and vicinity has been called for Friday evening, April 24, at 7:45 o'clock at the Y. M. C. A. to organize the Kingston Sunday School Association by adopting a constitution and electing officers. Each school is urged to send delegates to the meeting. There will be an address delivered on some phase of Sunday school work. The nominating committee appointed some time ago has suggested the following names to be voted upon at the meeting: President, Bernard McBride, of the Clinton Avenue M. E. Sunday school; vice presidents, Harry G. Smith, of the Rondout Presbyterian Sunday school, and Joel Brink, of the Lake Katrine Sunday school; recording secretary, Miss Margaret Riskey, of the St. James M. E. Sunday school; treasurer, Floyd Powell, of the Wurts Street Baptist Sunday school; city superintendent, William S. Eltinge, of the First Reformed Sunday school.

English Service.

A Sacred Cantata.

A sacred cantata, "The Risen King," by P. A. Schaecker, will be sung by a chorus of twenty voices at the evening service of the Evangelical Lutheran Church of the Redeemer tomorrow. Mrs. John B. Osterhoudt will sing the offertory solo.

CO-OPERATIVE ASSOCIATION.

New Organization Formed by Mr. Kraft at Stone Ridge.

The Stone Ridge Grange held a meeting on Friday evening at the old Lounsbury house in Stone Ridge and under the direction of Expert John E. Kraft, of the new bureau created by Governor Glynn, organized a co-operative association to be known as the Stone Ridge Co-operative Association, and the following officers were elected: President, George LeFever; vice president, John Van Wagenen; secretary, George Roosa; treasurer, Charles C. Hardenburgh; County Agent Wallace H. Hook, of the Ulster County Farm Bureau, was present at the meeting and delivered a very interesting address on farm bureau work and the need of it in Ulster county. At the close of his address Mr. Hook was introduced to the members present and several who had not already become members of the bureau affiliated themselves with it.

The meeting was also attended by a number of Kingston men.

"The Test" No Test.

The Clifton Mallory Company which is to play at Associated Hall on Monday evening next, brought here by the Dutch Arms, needs no testing in this city. They have already played to delighted audiences "David Garrick" and "Caste" proving that the company can give a performance that is as artistic in every detail as it is delightful. The play itself, "The Test," has never been given here before, but it matters not what the company plays, the audience is sure to be charmed.

Young Centrals Won.

Friday morning the Young Centrals defeated the fast Pioneer team by a score of 7 to 4. It was a fast and interesting game, as it was the first lost by the Pioneer. The features of the game were the batting of Kernan and fielding of McAndrew. "Cal" Winne, the famous spitball artist of the Pioneer, was knocked out of the box in the third inning. Batteries for Centrals, Roche and Boss; Pioneer, Winne and Wood. The Centrals wish to challenge any junior team in the city. Get game from B. Roche, Hashbrouck avenue.

Sunday Afternoon at Y. M. C. A.

The Rev. R. C. Miller of Albany will again be the speaker at the men's meeting to be held at the Y. M. C. A. on Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock and will speak on "Personal Evangelism." The meeting is held especially for the church men of the city. A song service will precede the meeting led by George D. Beckwith. Dr. Miller has spoken several times at the Y. M. C. A. and is a forceful speaker with a message for men.

Wife Says Mahoney is Insane.

Newport, Ky., April 18.—Mrs. Michael P. Mahoney declared today that she believes her husband is insane. She said that his mind began to fail when he was beset by financial troubles. Mahoney left his family here several years ago and took the alias of David G. Rose, his wife said. She last heard of him in Pittsburgh two years ago.

Annual Easter Concert.

The annual Easter concert of the Spring Street German Lutheran Church will be held next Wednesday evening, April 22, at 8 o'clock, in the school hall. The program consists of instrumental and vocal music, drills and motion songs. Admission 35 cents. Refreshments will be served after the concert.

WHAT IS HEAT?

Merely the Vibrations of Molecules in the Matter Heated.

Heat is so common that most of us never give it a thought except to complain of it in summer and to coax it in winter. And yet heat is one of the most difficult things in nature to understand. It is as mysterious as electricity.

Heat is not a substance. It is merely the vibration of the molecules composing the material heated. Every material is made up of molecules, and each molecule is composed of atoms. Molecules of matter are held together by a force called "cohesion." At absolute zero, colder yet than liquid air, or minus 270 degrees, all molecules are at rest. As the temperature rises the molecules begin to move to and fro. The higher the temperature is raised the farther and faster swing the molecules.

Heat is produced by combustion or fire, by friction, such as rubbing a coin on the sleeve; by electricity in the electric furnace, by chemical action and otherwise. No matter how heat is produced, its effect is always the same.

The molecules of a bar of iron are at rest at 32 degrees below zero. As the temperature rises they begin to oscillate. As more and more heat is applied they swing farther and farther apart until finally they begin to roll over one another. Then the iron is melted and runs like water. If still more heat be applied the iron will be diffused into gases and dissipated in the air.

Apply heat to water and it forms a gas called steam and is easily dissipated in the air. Lower the temperature to 32 degrees and the molecules slow up and pack close together, forming ice.

Heat is closely related to light. Both travel through the ether in a wave motion. All light rays carry some heat. This explains how the sun supplies us with both heat and light.—New York World.

Bird Structure.

Birds belong to the vertebrates, or backbone animals. They are distinguished from the rest of the vertebrates by the graceful outlines of their bodies, by their clothing of feathers, toothless jaws and the fore limbs, or wings, being adapted to flying. Nature has made many wonderful provisions in the bird, especially in the formation and arrangement of the bones. These are compact and in many cases hollow, thus combining lightness with strength. The first bone of the backbone is so freely jointed to the skull that birds can turn their heads around and look directly back.

Maybe He Found It.

"That's a pretty good looking umbrella you have there, Smith."

"Aha! You like it, do you? I thought somebody would notice that umbrella. I just took it down and had a new cover put on it, and it's as good as new."

"Had it recovered, eh? How much did the job cost you?"

"Just $1.50, Jones."

"What—$1.50? That sounds pretty steep to me. How much has the umbrella cost you now altogether?"

"Just $1.50, Jones—just $1.50."—New York Globe.

Australian Bushmen.

Although the bushmen of Australia are the very lowest in the scale of ignorance, they possess a rare instinct that equals that of many animals and is in its way as wonderful as man's reason. It is almost impossible for them to be lost. Even if they be led away from their home blindfolded for miles, when released they will unerringly turn in the right direction and make their way to their nest homes, and, though these are all very similar, they never make a mistake.

The Evil Eye.

The "evil eye" was one of the many superstitions that at one time beset humanity in the time of its ignorance. It was believed throughout the middle ages that certain persons had the power of cursing you by their glances, of subjecting you to the fascination which, unopposed, blighted and destroyed you. Amulets of various forms were used against this much dreaded power as well as certain practices, such as laughing, spitting and turning a somersault.

A Trial Order.

"Beg pardon, sir," said the steward, "but may I bring you some dinner, sir?"

"Oh, I guess so," replied the passenger wanly as he gazed out across the bounding deep. "I guess you can bring me one on approval."

"Beg pardon, sir," repeated the steward, "did you say 'on approval, sir?'"

"Yes," groaned the passenger weakly. "You see, I may not want to keep it."—Lippincott's.

A Russian journalist refused to fight a duel with a Russian general. He might have consented had he been allowed to choose fountain pens for weapons.

Some London scientist has discovered that the brains of African savages weigh the same as the brains of Oxford undergraduates, but he neglects to say what is the answer.

France has decided to participate in the Panama exposition. Unlike some other European nations, she is unable to understand the logic of cutting off one's nose to spite the face.

The woman must dominate her clothes, says Lillian. The same rule should apply to man, but there are times when the loss of one little suspender button jeopardizes his dominance.

While the Missouri supreme court has decided that the man is the head of the family, the bishops of the Church of England are discussing the omission of the word "obey" from the marriage ritual.

"Public Sentiment," announces a headline, "Is Better Than Law." But public sentiment would not have to be very good, after all, to be better than some of the laws contained in federal and state codes.
